BUT THE SENTIMENT IS GROWING

The Republicans Opposed It Solidly-The House Votes an Appropriation to Collect the Income Tax

Washington. December 12.-(Special.)-There was some important work done in both the senate and house today. The senate, by a vote of 27 to 24, refused to take up the sugar bill. Then, by a vote of 34 to 24, it killed the Vest cloture resolution. The house, by a large majority, voted the appropriation to collect the income tax. It was Senator Gray who moved to take up the sugar question in the senate. He and nearly all the democrats wanted to strike off the differential duty in favor of refined sugar, or, rather, the sugar trust. But by three majority, the senate declined means that the sugar trust may continue its course. The senate will not daily with the sugar question further. All the republicans and one democrat, Blanchard of Louisiana, voted against taking up the bill. The democratic sugar senators, as they are known, were all absent.

Cloture Defeated The refusal on the part of the senate to pass the Vest cloture resolution means that there will be no change in the rules of that body, and no bill can be voted upon save by unanimous consent. The vote to-day, however, indicated that the sentiment in favor of modern rules for the senate is growing. The western senators voted against the resolution, though a few months ago they wanted it. The republicans were solid against it. The democrats who voted against it were: Blanchard, Harris, Jones Arkansas, Palmer, Morgan, Pugh and Roach. Senator Walsh voted for the resolution and for the motion to take up the sugar bill. Senator Gordon was absent. The action of the house in voting, by a large majority, to retain in the urgent deficiency bill the appropriation to collect the income tax shows how that body stands upon this question. Bourke Cockran, Partlett and other New Yorkers viciously assaulted the income tax, but it did no good. Congress imposed the tax, and congress

The silver leader says the goldbugs are resorting to all sorts of tactics to prevent his committee tinue to press the matter up to March 4, 1855. He thinks free coinage is stronger w than it has been during this congress.

"It will carry into effect the recommendations of the administration," said he; "but it will go farther. It will be very strongly tinctured with silver. The senate has been fooled. ed with silver. The senate has been fooled that was when it passed the uncondi-il repeal bill; it will not be fooled again. I would like to know what Mr. Cleveland would do with a bill carrying out his proposed plan and bearing with it coinage of silver clause."

All indications are that the appropriations for fast mail facilities to the south and southwest will be continued by this conthe house will close its hearings on the currency bill Saturday, and will, perhaps, et a bill to the house next week. Debate it will be opened at once, and the ors predict the passage of some meas-efore the middle of January. Contrary to expectations, this congress seems decidedly in the humor of doing something on the currency question, and predictions are heard on all sides that there will be action. There may be much skirmishing and some genuine voting. The democrats are badly divided, but all believe something should be done and when the spirit few should be done, and when the spirit for

NO TARIFF LEGISLATION.

The Senate Will Have None of It-The Canal Bill. Washington, December 12.-The senate to day signified unmistakably its intention no to be led into any tariff legislation at this session. A motion to take up the house bill of last session making sugar free of duty, with the finance committee amendment to it imposing a flat duty of 40 per cent on sugar and abolishing the differentials, was defeated, the vote being-yeas, 23; nays, 27. The attempt to get up Mr. Vest's cloture resolution was also defeated-yeas, 24; nays,

The Nicaragua canal bill was taken up and discussed for a couple of hours, and Mr. Morgan, who is in charge of it, signified his purpose to ask the senate tomorrow to fix another time for voting upon it. Bills were passed giving pensions of $100 a month to the widows of Generals Banks, Crittenden and McCleiland. The bill to organize the territory of Indianola was discussed advantable by Mr. Platt, and was required. ussed adversely by Mr. Platt, and was referred to the committee on territories.

Mr. Morgan made a slight protest against the displacement of the Nicaragua bill.

Among the negative votes were Blanchard of Louisiana, Harris and Jones of Ar-kansas, Kyle, populist, of South Dakota, Morgan of Alabama, Peffer, populist, of Kansas, and Roach, democrat, of North

Mr. Harris explained the reasons for his vote in the negative. He considered the resolution unnecessary, inasmuch as a meeting of the committee on rules to take up the subject of cloture, would be held When the consideration of the Nicaragua canal bill was resumed Mr. Morgan dis-cussed the international question involved in the right of this government to participate in the consturction of the canal in view of our treaties with other powers.

"There was," he said, "no question between the United States and Great Britain or any other government touching this mat-ter. Nicaragua and Costa Rica, in their capacity as sovereign powers, had affirmed what had been done, and a case was pre-sented in which there could be no transfer of the concessions into the hands of any other government."

He discussed at some length the right of the exercise of power under the constitu-tion. It was not our policy, he said, to acquire territory by conquest, but by pur-chase. He then reviewed the attitude of the United States in the acquisition of territory, and argued that it was within our power to, in like manner, engage in the construction of this canal by guarantee.

At the close of his remarks Mr. Morgan said that he would tomorrow ask unanimous consent to have a near time fixed for taking a vote on the passage of the bill. Mr. Cullom, republican, of Illinois, said he would address the senate on the bill, which he favored generally, on Friday, and then the matter went over as the unfinished

The Right of the United States. In his discussion of the Nicaragua canal bill Mr. Morgan made the assertion that there could be no question between the government of Great Britain and the United States as to the right of the latter to either construct the canal, to guarantee the bonds that should be issued for that purpose, or to exercise the power inherent in itself as one of the great family of na-tions. This statement struck some of the senators as of so positive a nature that Mr. Morgan, who never speaks at random, must be in possession of knowledge of which his associates were ignorant.

Mr. Morgan replied government would not protest, and inti-mated that the matter had been the subject of confidential communication between the two governments.

Mr. Crane was alone with Seeley for about thirty minutes and afterwards the representatives of the press were asked into the office to see the two men. Mr. Crane stated that Seeley had absolutely refused to say anything in regard to his defalcation until he had consulted with his attorney, Frank W. Angell, in New York. Seeley said that he had worked under Mr Crane for fourteen years and knew no man in whom he would rather confide, but would refuse to answer questions put by

Mr. Crane then said: "I have asked Mr Seeley question after question without getting a word of information, but I wish to ask one more question and believe it will be answered." Turning to the prisoner h said: "Was any one besides Frederick R. Baker interested with you either directly or indirectly in this dafalcation?" "No, sir," promptly responded Seeley

"Baker was the man." Seeley exhibited considerable feeling when he mentioned the name of Baker, and the look on his face indicated that he

HE REFERS TO WILLIAM ASTOR

This Man with an Income of Millions Escapes a Federal Tax.

BOURKE COCKRAN OPPOSES The Government Needs the Revenue, Too, Because the Wilson Tariff Bill Will Not Raise Enough,

Washington, December 12 .- As soon as the routine business of the house was disposed of the urgent deficiency bill was taken up Mr. Breckinridge, democrat, of Kentucky. An effort was made to agree upon a limitation of general debate. The opponents of the item appropriating money to make the income tax law effective, and of the item increasing the appropriation for payment of special pension agents, and Mr. Breckinridge could not come to terms, however, and the discussion was begun under the rules. General Henderson, republican, of Iowa, antagonized the item of $250,000 to pay spe cial pension examiners. The discussion was participated in by Messrs. Coombs, democrat, of New York; Daniels, republican, of New York; Morse, republican, of Massachusetts, and Sickles, democrat, of New York.

Mr. Bartlett, democrat, of New York, addressed himself to the item appropriating $245,095 to execute the law for the collection of the income tax. He said he had introduced in the first day of the session a bill to repeal that portion of the tariff bill, but he recognized that that bill would never see the light of day. The only way in which the end sought by that bill could be reached was by defeating any appropriation for the enforcement of the law.

Mr. Bartlett discussed at some length the legal features of the question, with a view to demonstrating the unconstitutionality and invalidity of the income tax.

The Author of the Income Tax Bill Replies.

Mr. McMillan, the author of the income tax feature of the tariff bill, replied to Mr. Bartlett, discussing the latter's assertion that the income tax was unjust.

"Why unjust?" asked McMillan, "whence the injustice? Whom does it hurt? He says t falls upon the poor man, because his rent it falls upon the poor man, because his rent will be increased. The poor man is paying it now. He will not be in any worse condition if the taxation is put on some other things than clothes and other necessaries of life. Man should pay to the support of the government that blesses him, that protects him, in proportion to the blessings he receives through the protection of his property. If he has got a big estate then he should pay a big tax. If he has got a little estate, he should pay a little tax, and the man with a thousand-dollar income ought not to pay the same tax to the support of the government of the United States that is paid by the man who has ten millions of incorne. To illusmust be in possession of knowledge of which his associates were ignorant.

Accordingly; during the executive session this afternoon, Mr. Higgins, of Delavare, asked Mr. Morgan if he will be a substitute of using on the floor of the house, as an illustration of otherwise.

names of individuals. An Apt Illustration. "But in order to show the flagrant wrong that is done by a system of taxation, un-der which we have been living, I will call your attention to the name of one man which is not unfamiliar to many of you and certainly not to every citizen of the state and city of New York. I speak of Mr. William Waldorf Astor. This gentleman ran for congress once against the present governor of New York (Mr. Flower) and was defeated, and permitted that defeat to do for him what no man ought to permit to be done in this country, that is, it soured and embittered him against the government of the United States and our intitutions generally. He moved abroad, and not content with what he could say against America himself and our American institutions, he purchased one of the ablest journals in the great government of Great Britain. He lives there now and this newspaper which he owns and controls is doing its work against our institutions. And yet, Mr. Chairman, the income of this man, I am creditably informed on what I believe to be good authority, derived from property in New York, is more than $5,000,000 a year, and he does not pay (he does pay a state tax, he does pay a county tax and he does pay a municipal tax, it is true) the government of the United States a dollar and has paid $10 in ten years, although he has this colossal fortune, which is protected by our army and defended by our navy. Now, we say that notwithstanding his foreign resisay that notwithstanding his lence he should be compelled to pay some thing to the support of the government that blesses and protects his vast estate in this country. What say you?" addressing Mr.

Bartlett, "Where is the man that will contend that there is any injustice in requiring him to bear some portion of the burden of taxation?" Mr Bartlett—I will answer the gentleman that there is no better taxpayer in the state of New York than Mr. William Walthere is no family in the state or county of New York that contributes more largely to taxation purposes, state, county and nunicipal, than does the Aster family. Mr. McMillin-I respond to the gentleman from New York; tax the rich and the poo n proportion to what they possess and not in proportion to what they need. It ought to be the dollar that pays the taxes and

The Tax Will Be Necessary. Further along Mr. McMillan became en gaged in a colloquy with Mr. Cockran, democrat, of New York, regarding the effect upon the government revenues of a reduc-tion of tariff rates, which concluded with the admission by Mr. McMillin that he did not believe that the Wilson bill, as framed, would have the effect to raise the rev enties necessary to carry on the government without the income tax measure.

Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, took the foor to defend the appropriation, but yielded most of his time to Mr. Cockran, of New York. He argued that the income tax legislation that is leveled against prosperity and success in life, is undemocratic, is unislation that is leveled against prosperity and success in life, is undemocratic, is un-American, is revolutionary, is anarchistical, and ought to be condemned as it has been by the American people. (Applause.) "Mr. Chairman, it has also, I believe, been said that this is a proper form of taxation. My opposition is not directed against the right of the government to tax incomes, because I believe it has the same right to tax incomes that it has to tax principal. But the gentleman from Tennesses says he insists that all men shall bear their proportion of taxation. Why, then, does he limit this tax to $5,000 persons? Why is it that this system of taxation sets aside a small portion of the population and forces them to bear all this burden? If you can make this distinction for burdens you can make it for privileges. If you can single out 85,000 persons for special taxation, you can single out 85,000 persons for special privileges under the government. Because democracy means equality, because all men should be held equal before the law, I believe that this democratic party will ultimately owner round to its ancient traditions; that it will discard these new-fangled notions so eloquently and attractively voiced by the gentleman from Tennessee; that it will remember the teachings of such men will remember the teachings of such men as Jefferson and others of our great politi-cal leaders; it will reflect that the great men who led them to victory, whose teachmen who led them to victory, whose teachings have inspired them in hours of defeat, whose principles have brought the American pecple around to their support, are safer guides, leaders and patriots than those gentlemen who aim to be their successors, and who have led the democratic party to defeat which threatens its very existence. Make this tax universal; and while we may object to some of its harsher features—while we may consider that economically it is unsound, that it compels a greater sacrifice on the part of the taxpayer that the government can use for itself, we will recognize the measure as embracing the democratic idea of equality. While you stand fast to that principle, you may be mistaken, but you can always retrace your

The debate was closed by Mr. Breckinridge, who phophesied the return to power of the democratic party, that it might fulfill the pledges it had made to the people. and upon which they had been charged

PEARCE MUST RETURN.

The Mobile Embezzler Must Return to Alabama and Stand Trial.

Abilene. Tex., December 12 .- (Special.)-A telegram was received here today stating that the United States supreme court had affirmed the decision in the famous Pearce case. It will be remembered that Pearce was arrested here in his private office in April, 1892, on a requisition from the governor of Alabama, charging him with embezzlement in sums aggregating over $80,000. Pearce was a citizen of high social standing, a church leader and deacon and a member of the firm of Bompart, Redford & Pearce. He was secretary of the Merchants' and Planters' Insurance Company, of Mobile, Ala., when he fell. He was a plunger in real estate-during the Birmingham boom and was caught in the squeeze. He fought the requisition and secured some of the best legal talent in the State. Ever since he has waged the most stubborn legal battle ever known in Texas. But it was all of no avail.

He declines to be interviewed and refuses to state whether or not he would obey the mandate of the court and return stated that he wrote the Alabama sheriff today that he was destitute of funds and would return upon receipt of the transportation and expense money.

Three Negro Churches Blown Down in the Former Place. HEAVY LOSS IN MONROE COUNTY

Trees Torn Up by the Roots and Blown Miles Away-Families Hurled Through the Air-No Lives Lost,

Reynolds, Ga., December 12.-(Special.)-A terrible cyclone swept the western and porthern part of the town this morning. about 4 o'clock. Everything in its track was swept away as chaff. Trees were blown in some instances more than a mile. Household and kitchen furniture was blown for many miles, and, in some instances, entirely lost. Ten houses, with household effects, are total wrecks. Eighteen or twenty houses are partially injured. All the large trees in one portion of the town are uprooted. The path of the cyclone was over 100 yards wide and easily lecated by the sad havoc of the storm. In the forest beyond the town huge trees were twisted as if they were straws.

Three negro churches, large frame buildings, also used for school purposes, were wiped from the face of the earth. The timbers are scattered in every direction. Mrs. M. A. Powell lost a ginhouse and seven or eight other farm buildings.

The residence of Mr. N. B. Newson, occu pled by his family, is totally demolished He lost his furniture, his smokehouse and its contents. Several members of his family were in the house and their escape was miraculous. They were pinned down by heavy timbers, but were rescued with no serious injuries.

The house occupied by Mr. J. A. Hollis was badly injured. A room, occupied by his son and three other young men, was completely turned over and all the furniture was broken. The occupants of the room were more or less injured.

Two tenant houses, occupied by Nat Chrisopher and Peter Gray, were totally demolshed and the contents were blown away. The occupants of the Gray house were blown into a cotton patch a hundred yards off. Nearly every member of the family has broken bones.

A house occupied by Mr. Bill Hobbs was also totally demolished and a large quantity of corn was blown off. A house owned and occupied by Bud Gray, colored, was also torn up and he was slightly injured. A tenant house of E. A. Goddard, occupled by John Cook, colored, was blown down. The falling timbers caught a negro girl, about ten years old, and badly crushed her, breaking a limb in two places and injuring his wife.

Mr. P. E. McDaniel, who lives a mile west of town, sustained a heavy loss by timbers falling on his engine. His gin-house was also injured. His buggy, which was out in front of his house, was picked up and carried several hundred yards and proken to nieces people have never known. The whole town was panic stricken.

FORSYTH TORN TO PIECES. Great Destruction Wrought by the Furious Storm-No Lives Lost.

Forsyth, Ga., December 12 .- (Special.)-Today Forsyth presents a sad spectacle Houses are unroofed, brick walls demolished, trees uprooted and fences swept away A terrible cyclone struck the town this morning at 3 o'clock and left some Yearful wrecks in its path. A heavy rain had been falling at intervals during the whole night Shortly after midnight the storm began to rage in all its fury.

One of the first objects struck by the cyclone here was the Methodist Episcopal church, which stands almost in the center of the town. This was leveled to the ground in a moment and splintered into kindling wood. The church was a large frame edifice with a very tall steeple. It fell with a loud crash. Some of the timbers were blown against the doors of Proctor & Huddleston's store, 200 yards away. The doors of this store were crushed and the wind and rain poured in upo a $30,000 stock of goods. The wind forced its way through the ceiling and roof, leaving a large hole for a skylight. The corner of Bloodworth & Child's grocery store was torn off. The front end of a large two-story livery stable owned by H. J. Carson was moved two and a half inches on its foundation.

The residence of the Misses Proctor wa partially 'unroofed and otherwise badly damaged. Nearly all the awnings on the public square were torn away. Many chimneys were toppled over and outhouses blown away.

Mr. George B. Thweatt's residence suffered the loss of one corner and a pillar was knocked from underneath. His kitcher vas also blown down. The new residence of Mrs. Lilly Hill which is not yet completed, was slightly injured.

There are many other evidences of la night's storm. The cyclone came from the southwest and took a northeast direction It was only last year that Forsyth was visited by a cyclone, but it only swept the outskirts of the town. This time it bles directly across the public square. The storm played many strange freaks

Mr. C. M. Hooks, who runs the Hooks hotel, has recovered the horns of his cow, but the cow cannot be found. She was blown off, too.

The heaviest individual losers are Proc tor & Huddleston, wholesale and retail dry goods and grocery merchants. The demolition of the Methodist church is a great loss to the tiwn. It cost about $13,000, but can be replaced for much less than that amount. Fortunately no lives were lost. The loss, financially, will reach about $15,000. There was no insurance on any of the property against storms.

Wills Valley, Alabama. Gadsden, Ala., December 12 .- (Special.)terrible cyclone passed over Little Wills valley early Tuesday morning, above Attalia, some eight miles from Gadsden. The cyclone in all its fury struck the house of E. A. Gilliland, one of the county commissioners, and literally swept it from the face of the earth, not leaving even the pillars standing. Mr. Gilliland and his wife and daughter were up at the time and in the kitchen. George Stovall, a young man whom Mr. Gilliland had employed, and a two-year-old orphan girl whom Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland had taken when a baby to raise, were still in bed. Stovall was blown out into the yard against a tree and received internal injuries, from which it is thought he will die. The little girl and the bed she was sleeping on were blown fully 200 yards from the house, and, strange to say, the little girl was not hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland and their daughter were left standing in the kitchen on the floor unhurt, the house being swept from and Mr. Price will probably never be known. Shots were heard and a minute later Price was found by himself lying face downward on the floor, evidently expiring. His son, seventeen years old, hurriedly put on some clothing and ran to the home of Dr. Jewett, on Cedar avenue, who responded to the

Before he arrived, however, Mr. Price was dead. He had been shot through the body three times.

When Mr. Price was first awakened by the burglar he got up without disturbing any other member of the family, and going down stairs, found the rear kitchen window open. No burglars were to be seen and he returned to his room, thinking the burglar had been frightened away. Getting back in bed Mr. Price found his wife awake. The two talked the affair over. After awhile all was quiet again, and then Mr. Price and his wife, still awake, saw two men standing near the dressing case in their bedroom. The men were of medium height and wore white handkerchiefs over their faces. They had on dark clothes and wore black derby hats, Mr. Price sprang from his bed and as he did so one of the burglars shot at him three times, all of the bullets taking effect, one in the right leg near the knee, one in the stomach and the third in the region of the heart. Mr. Price fell, and as he did so the two burglars ran out of the room.

Mrs. Price was so frightened at the appearance of the burglars that she was una ble to make an outcry. She is suffering under such a nervous strain that she is unable to remember whether any words were exchanged between her husband and the murderers or not. Mrs. Price's son heard the shots from an adjoining room, ed into the room of his father and the for a doctor. The neighborhood was arouse and the police notified, but up to 10 o'clock no clue was discovered. From a pocketbook on the dining room table $85 wa taken by the burglars. No other property

The City Panic-Stricken and Many Families Leaving. Ashtabula O. December 12.-Diphtheria in a malignant form, is epidemic here, and numbers its victims in all sections of the city. There are now nearly one hundre cases reported. Since Saturday ten deaths have resulted from the disease, four on Tuesday night. The board of health has ordered the schools closed Monday and has ings be held at present. How the disease became so simultaneously scattered is a problem yet unsolved. A strange coincidence was the fact that a great majority of the first victims were using milk furnished by a certain city milk n.an. The board of health investigated the matter and pronounced the milk free from any disease germs. The city is panic-stricken and many families are leavng until the epidemic is under control.

Which Places Before the People the Ques tion Whether the Commissioner Should Not Go Before the People.

The state school commissioner will probaby become an elective office.

A constitutional amendment to that effect will be presented to the people for ratification at the next state election.

The History of the Measure. The proposed amendment to the constitution, whereby the commissioner of education would become an elective officer, was introduced in the house of representatives by Mr. Walker, of Pierce county. There it passed by the necessary vote, when it was sent to the senate and referred to the committee on public schools, of which Senator Lumpkin is chairman.

On Tuesday morning that committee reported the bill back with the recommenda tion that it lay on the table until the next Snator Sheppard moved to disagree to the report. He spoke earnestly in favor of the submission of the amendment to the people. "If they are fit to elect the governor," said he, "then they are equally fit to elect the man whom that governor now appoints. There never should be any delay about going to the people with anything. That is the essence of democracy.' The motion to disagree was agreed to and the subject was made the special order for 4 o'clock p. m. on Wednesday.

Senator Harris, of the third, it was who presented the claims of the measure when the special order was reached, "I was a member of the state senate in 1889,' said he, "when the proposal was made to make the commissioner of agriculture elective. That measure was fought with just the same arguments as are now used against this measure. It passed the house as did this measure, to meet an adverse committee report, as in the present case. I made the motion to disagree, and the office was made elective. Not a word have I ever heard against the working of this

The educational department, in my judgment, is second to none other in this state. All parties-republican, democratic and populist, want this. Georgia must progress in the matter of education. The Present County Commission Met Yesterday for the Last Time.

THAT IS FOR TRANSACTING BUSINESS

Next Month the Board Will Meet, Ay prove the Minutes and Adjourn-The New Board Will Then Begin Work.

The last business meeting of the present board of county commissioners was held yesterday morning. Commissioner Thompscn was absent on account of illness and the board was thus composed of Chatman Collier and the three retiring members-

The new members will be installed at the meeting on the first Wednesday in January. The three retiring members will be present, but will simply sign up the minutes, after approving them. The incoming commissioners are Messrs. Forrest Adair, Walter R. Brown and Jack J. Spalding, who is commissioner from the county at

It was a lengthy session, lasting over two hours, Chairman Pro Tem. Nelms pre-siding during the first few minutes, as Chairman Collier, detained by important exposition matters, was some minutes late. There was a quorum present and it was something peculiar that all of them were present at a meeting for but mess for the last time, and with one of the number pre-siding. Chairman Pro Tem. The first was that of running a main from the new waterworks line of pipe to the city stockade, and the other was the proosed bridge over the Chattahoochee river liscussed at some length and were settle virtually, when the members reconsidered and decided to put the onus on the new ommissioners, who will compose a quorum and a majority of the board. Another matter of interest was the selection of three men to compose the board of examining engineers. This board was created under recent act of the present legislature, and id not become a law until yesterday morn-

Chairman Pro Tem. Nelms Presides After waiting some minutes for the arrival of a commissioner to complete the quorum, when Commissioner Hunnicutt appeared, Chairman Pro Tem. Nelms took the chair and called the board to order. The members responding to the roll call were Commissioners Nelms, Hunnicutt and Collins, Chairman Pro Tem, Nelms glanced at Commissioner Collins and then at Comissioner Hunnicutt. The look was understood and all three smiled; a smile that was, perhaps, tinged with just a shade of regret. All three were slient a few moments and Dr. Nelms "We'll all three be conspicuous by our bsence at the next meeting of the board."

"Not at all," cheerfully suggested Commissioner Collins, "we have another chance. We've got to approve the minutes of this meeting and sign them up."

"Yes," ruefully continued the chairman pro tem, "but it won't be a business meet-ing. This is our last of that sort. We'd better go ahead."

The Doctors Want Pay. Solicitor Hill was in attendance at the meeting and asked to be heard first as he was needed in the criminal court. He said that the doctors who had testified in the case of the state agminst Carr had presented bills of $50 each against the state for the services rendered. This bill, he said, had been approved by Judge Richard Clark, and that he himself thought it

It was then agreed that the whole matter should go over until Colonel Thomson arrived. Solicitor Hill then retired. Attorney Thomson did not arrive during the meeting and the matter was referred to him.

Making Fort a Fine Street. The property owners along Fort street are enterprising and energetic citizens, and all of them are taking a splendid interest

Yesterday morning Mr. E. C. Peters appeared before the board and stated that he wanted to donate, for the property owners along Fort street, ten feet on each side between Ponce de Leon circle and Bleckley street; that the street was at present thirty feet wide, but that the people there appre-ciated the immense amount of travel that will be turned in that direction when the exposition is opened, and that, therefore they desired to make it fifty feet in width. The only condition attached was that the county work the street at this point, the property owners all signing releases for any

A Misunderstanding Over a Main Some time ago the county commissioners permitted the convicts to do a lot of grad-ing and work along the line of pipe laid from the waterworks to the city. This work, according to some tacit understand-ing which developed at the board yesterday, was to be reciprocated by the city in a way suitable to the county, and this way, ac-cording to an understanding that seems to have existed in a general sort of way, was that the city should permit the county to tap the big main at Emmet street and that it should pay for a line of 16-inch pipe to the city barracks. the city barracks.

This matter went before the city council and was passed up, but Mayor Goodwin failed to see it in the same light, aithough the water board had urged it. He suggested that the city could borrow the money from the county, as had been agreed upon, but that the matter was all for the rebut that the matter was all for the new council se to the final outcome.

Commissioner Collins suggested that the incoming council would be all right, as Commissioner Nelms would be on it. He said that the board should go ahead and lay the main and that the money would be

was a less expensive way of getting the water. He thought that the main could be tapped at another point and water could be secured at a much less expense. Commissioner Collins seemed shocked at the idea, as he declared that the water would be unfiltered and very muddy. Commissioner Collier said that it was his understanding purpose of fire protection and the flushing of the closets. Commissioner Collins was sure that only filtered water would do, as it would be used for other purposes, and that besides the city could obtain a revenue from parties along the main who would want water.

After a lot of talk it was finally decided to let the whole matter go over for the

A Proposed Bridge Brings on Talk.

A petition was presented to change the proposed bridge over the Chattahoochee river from Powers's ferry to Heard's ferry. At this there arose a large kick.

Commissioner Hunnicutt said that Ordinary Stone, of Cobb county, and the committee on roads and bridges of the Fulton county board of commissioners, had met and agreed upon the Powers's ferry crossing as the proper place for the erection of a bridge, and that it would be undoing work to change it.

After a long discussion about wooden bridges, covered bridges, iron bridges and other fashions of bridges, Chairman Collier said that as it was a matter of expendi-ture that he thought it might be well to let it go over until the new board could ac The motion was adopted.

Convict-made Goods. Columbus, O., December 12.-A very start ling story is told by an officer about the unavoidable condition of things at the Ohio penitentiary. There are now 2,100 convict at the Ohio penitentiary, only about 1,000 of them being employed at work, the balance remaining in the idle house. This condition was brought about by the warfare waged against convict-made goods by labor organization. The legislature last winter passed a law requiring all prison-made goods to be labeled as such, thus almost completely shutting them out of the market. This made it necessary for the big contractors to give up convict labor and one result is that more than half the pris oners are idle. While they were at work the big prison was more than self-support-ing, but now it is running away behind. Besides this, while the convicts were at work many of them earned considerable money by overwork. This was aither sent o their relatives or held for them.

THE GOLD STILL GOES

Washington, December 12.—This after-noon the treasury department was informed that $2,150,000 in gold had been withdrawn today from the New York subtreasury, of which $1,300,000 was taken for export. This reduces the gold reserve to $103,378,000. The general treasury balance keeps up well, standing at $155,000,000. Expenditures so far this month exceed the receipts only $4,000,000, and this difference will almost be wiped out by the end of the month. Nearly $7,000,000 of the $10,-

Mr. Lehman's Resignation.

New York, December 12.—It is stated at the office of Lehman Bros. that the resignation of Mr. Meyer Lehman as director of the American Cotton Oil Company was purely for personal reasons. There is no truth in the report that he is to start an opposition company. His relations towards the company and its president, E. D. Adams, remain friendly and pleasant.

this part of the story is confirmed by the prison officials. Now it is claimed the idleness into which the prisoners have been forced has a bad effect upon their minds, and that three or four of them show signs of insanity nearly every day, and to keep them from becoming raving maniacs they are compelled to run and jump and other vise vigorously exercise until they are completely tired out. The guards to whom the correspondent talked declare this is absolutely true, while their superiors declare they know nothing of such a state of affairs. paratively good health. He celebrated mass at St. Patrick's Sunday.
Father O'Brien was ordained in 1875 at Pio Nonno college, near Macon, at the same time Father McMahon, the present pastor of St. Patrick's, was made a priest. Father O'Brien was intimately acquainted with every one in his parish. He was a native of Tipperary county, Ireland. He has been stationed at Savannah, Rome and Dalton. Priests in neighboring diocese have been motified of Father O'Brien's death. No arragements will be made for the funeral until the bishop is heard from by wire. Heavy Rains.

The rainfall in the past twenty-four hours throughout the upper Savannah valley has coa it was excessively so. fall will bring the river up to twenty-Two Elopements.

Last night, about 8 o'clock, John Sweeney, a convict, escaped from the poorhouse. The authorities think that he escaped to be married. The fair bride will probably be Miss Mattie Head, who had just served a Miss Matthe Head, who had just set the sentence of sixty days at the poorhouse for vagrancy. Her time was up last Thursday morning, and it is believed that she was the Circe who enticed the youthful convict to break away. Sweeney was sentenced to twelve months on the public works for larceny from the house.

Sheriff John W. Lancaster, of Barnwell, S. C., arrested in the city this morning Arthur M. Owens. Owens is accused of having burglarized the house of Mrs. Still, in Barnwell. Owens consented to return to Carolina without a requisition.

Judge Remsen's Proposition. Judge Remsen's proposition for the whole people to vindicate and satisfy Mr. Watson, and to remove the stigma of being called "traitor," by electing him to congress ofter Mr. Black resigns in March, Mr. Waton agreeing to immediately resign, has not een favorably received. Democrats do not consider themselves responsible for the stigma Mr. Watson complains of. If Mr. Watson wants to be vindicated, and have the mark of infamy removed, it is taid he should quit the people's party and re-turn to the fold of democracy which originally honored him. There is no hope of over effecting a reconciliation between the people in the manner proposed. Something more reasonable than that will have to be suggested. Democrats hoot at the idea of electing Watson.

A prominent democrat says: "We are not going to have another congressional election in this district until next winter." When asked why there would not be one in March, when Major Black resigns, he answered: "That's all right." From the reply, it is surmised that when Major Black resigns he will hold the office until the governor orders an election, and that may be deferred until the fall of the year.

BARN BURNERS PLEAD GUILTY.

They Say They Were Advised to Burn Out Democrats.

Sylvania, Ga., December 12.-(Special.)-A special session of the superior court was held here today for the purpose of trying the negroes charged with burning the ginhouses and barns of Mr. Jesse Wade and Mr. Hack, over on Mobley's pond, in this county, several weeks ago. Solicitor General Beverly Evans was on hand to prosecute the cases and the grand jury found true bills on each of the two charges against the following parties all of whom are colored: Cuyler Carter, Alfred Griner, George Green, Andrew Cooper, James Carter, Jerry Brown and John Lawson.

The detendants being arraigned, plead suity to both the charges. All made statements and begged the mercy of the court. Cuyler Carter and Alfred Griner seem to Cuyler Carter and Alfred Griner seem to have been the leaders of this gang of incendiaries. Their statements created a sensation. They sald they were advised by Mr. F. M. Buford, who is the populist candidate for sheriff, to burn out all of the prominent democrats. Buford told them, they said, to organize themselves and get good men to do the burning. They said they thought at the time it was good advice and acted on it.

They organized themselves into a fire club and burnt out Mr. Wade and Mr. Hack and were preparing to apply the torch to the property of other prominent democrats of that section when they were overheard at one of their meetings and arrested.

Last night while Mr. B. A. Fogarty was on his way to his home in Bellevue he was accosted by two tramps who demanded that he give them what money he had with him. He handed them 10 cents and they permitted him to go on his way unhurt.

Dr. Pierce was first to introduce a Little Pill to the American people. Many have imitated them, but none have approached his "Pleasant Pellets" in true worth, or value, for all laxative and cathartic purposes.

Once Used, they are Always in Favor. Assist Nature a little now and then, with Assist Nature a little now and then, with a gentle, cleansing laxative, thereby removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels, toning up and invigorating the liver and quickening its tardy action, and you thereby remove the cause of a multitude of distressing diseases, such as headaches, indigestion, or dyspepsia, biliousness, pimples, blotches, eruptions, boils, constipation, piles, fistula and maladies too numerous to mention.

If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to subdue attacks of dangerous diseases.

That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequaled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity, with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

They absolutely cure sick headache, billousness, constipation, coated tongue, poor appetite, dyspepsia and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

A free sample of the "Pellets," (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

ATLANTA, GA., December 13, 1894.

Hands Off!

The house did a good day's work yesterday when it promptly accepted the amended general registration bill as it came from the senate, adding immaterial amendments, which were adopted by the senate. Thus the measure now only needs the governor's signature to become a law.

The provisions of the bill will now give general satisfaction, and if any of the details prove to be defective they will be remedied by the legislature in future. We must give the new system a fair trial before its merits and teomings will be thoroughly under-

The friumph of ballot reform in Georgia opens a new political era for the south. It is certain to spread through our sister states, and already the movement has a fair start in Virginia, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. When The Constitution first agitated this reform it felt confident that public sentiment would support it, and this anticipation has not been disappointed. Our best citizens, the leaders of the people, the secular and religious press and the ministry have all rallied to the cause of an honest ballot, and our legislature has lost no time in passing a law which makes it certain that none but legally qualified voters will be permitted to vote, and that their votes will be fairly counted.

Some of our northern friends express surprise at the intense interest manifested in fair elections throughout the south, but with a little reflection they will see that our people have been on this line all the time, but the pressure from the outside has made it impossible m to carry out their wishes. Un til recently this section has been threatened with bayonet rule and force bills. and hampered by federal election laws. The removal of these restraints and menaces has left us free to act for ourselves without the fear of unfriendly interference, and without the dread of negro domination in any locality. The policy of letting the south alone is bringing about the reforms which the republicans once hoped to accomplish by force. So long as the southern whites were bulldozed and oppressed the instinct of self-preservation compelled them to cling together in a solid mass and carry their elections at any cost. But the abandonment of the old policy of sectional persecution has changed everything. The average southerner is now more interested in material progress than in politics. He would rather see a new cotton mill built in his town than to see his candidate elected. He now realizes that a fair ballot and an honest count will be best for everybody, and in the interests of law and order and progress he favors an absolutely fair election system.

This is a long leap forward, and it will do more than any other one thing to wipe out sectionalism and unreasonable partisanry. The registration bill passed by the Georgia legislature shows in every line the intention of our lawmakers to throw every possible eafeguard around every voter of each political party. Under its operations there will be no chance for illegal voting, and the requirement that the boards of registration shall not be composed of the representatives of any one political party cannot fail to have a good effect. All this shows what the "hands-off" policy will do for us and for the country. Hereafter, unless the force bill looms up again, which both parties regard as a most improbable contingency, the politicians, people and press of the south will steadily persevere in the work of ballot reform until we succeed in perfecting our system. We do not hesitate to say that no state in the union has ever made a more promising beginning in the great work of ballot reform. It is safe to predict that the movement will be pushed until Georgia will have an election system as ideally perfect as the human intellect can make it. Hands off! This should be the motto of the republicans when they regain power, if they are really in earnest and at ballot reform in the south. No matter what a voter's race or political party may be, we are determined that in Georshall be entitled to vote one time in an election and have his vote ounted once!

But outsiders must hands off! There must be no effort at force bill dishness. It would start the movement backward!

In a Tight Place.

It seems that the people of Washington have been much interested of late in the fact that a sentry box has been set up within the grounds of the white house and a guard mounted. The duty of this guard is to eat raw turnips, goobers and horse apples in his hours of ease, and to protect the life, liberty and property of Mr. Cleveland when the occasion arises; but as the guard and the sentry box are new phases of Washington society, the people of that town have viewed them with both interest and curiosity. So much so that the question has arisen whether it will not be necessary to erect sentry box No. 2 and appoint another guard to defend and protect guard No. 1.

The affair being altogether without precedent the Washington people are justified in standing around on the pavement and peeping through the iron railing to see what the gander-legged guard is up to.

The truth is, if we are to have the currency system of the European monarchies, it will not be very long until ve shall be driven to adopt their political system, which is that of the oneman power. The idea of packing the imperial guard in a sentry box like a sardine is wholly American so far as we know. In Europe the imperial guard is stowed away in harracks, but this country has escaped the foreign contagion and has stuffed its palace guard into a hard pine sentry box-a box hardly big enough for Colonel Livingston's stray Georgia 'possum.

Long live the republic! and hurrah for the single gold standard!

The Chamber of Commerce Today.

We publish elsewhere a call from President Stewart F. Woodson, of the Chamber of Commerce, for a meeting of that body today for the purpose of passing resolutions urging action by congress in the settlement of the currency question. We trust that the meeting will be a representative one, and that the business men of Atlanta, through the Chamber of Commerce, will take such action as will emphasize the demand of our people that the congress now in session will take some step that will give relief from the universal depression which has followed the unsettled and unsatisfactory condition of the most miserable currency system known to any civilized country on the face of the earth.

The meeting will probably petition congress to take some action on the line of the relief measure proposed by Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Carlisle as being a step in the right direction.

The Constitution earnestly hopes that congress will not adjourn without action on this important matter and we trust that the meeting of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will be followed by similar action of commercial bodies in other cities.

Today's meeting should be attended by our business men. Nothing is as imrtant now as relief legislation and the country must have it.

Business or Pleasure?

There is an inviting mystery about the movements of Mr. Horace White. of New York city. He is supposed to be an editorial writer on The Evening Post, but by profession he is an advocate of gold monometallism-the Brit ish single standard-and acts as walking delegate in the promotion of the schemes of those who are trying to fasten the British system on our people. Those who read the newspapers of the day with any degree of attention will have noticed the punctuality with which Mr. White appears on the scene whenever and wherever a financial discussion is advertised. During the past few years, no bankers' convention at tempts to proceed further than a formal organization until the ushers announce that Mr. Horace White is in his seat. When this announcement is made the performance begins, Mr. White overlooking it all from behind his collection of manuscripts, pamphlets and monographs.

Before Mr. White has been in his seat long-just long enough to enable him to arrange his belongings after the manner of the man who has tooth powders and lotions for sale—the convention assumes an air of expectancy, the chairman clears his throat, a gentlemanly usher places a large goblet of water on Mr. White's desk, and the scene is enlivened by one of that gentleman's lectures on money and banking systems. Independently of the fact that Mr. White is a feature of all conventions of bankers, he is ready, without money and without price, to pack up his utensils, and go about from city to city, lecturing to boards of trade and chambers of commerce on the rank and luxuriant beauty of the Britsh gold standard.

Mr. White knew that the Indian mints were to be closed to the free coinage of silver several weeks before the fact was known in this country, and he made a veiled allusion to it in his newspaper, printing the statement in Italics. This shows clearly enough that Mr. White, in practicing the profession of goldbuggery in this country, has a wholesome understanding with the past grand nasters of the business in Great Britain and that he has managed to secure their confidence. As our readers know Mr. White was at the bankers' convention in Baltimore, and the presumption is-judging from the eagerness with which he advocates it-that he is the author of the patch work scheme known as the Baltimore plan. His latest appearance is before the banking and currency committee of the house, where he aired again his desire to see the Baltimore plan put in operation. White is this: What interest has he, any more than any other newspaper writer or individual, in the promotion of currency schemes, or in fastening the itish gold standard on the country? Is Mr. White engaging in the arduous work of propagating currency views for the benefit of his health? The presumption is that he gets a salary for his newspaper work, but is he lecturing and delivering addresses and appearing before congressional committees for pleasure? Is he such an enthusiastic dmirer of the Britsh gold standard that he neglects his editorial work and the ease of his club to hustle about from town to town at his own expense? Does he pursue his chosen profession without fee or reward? Does he appear be fore the banking and currency committee and before divers and sundry other bodies from motives of patriot-

In fine and in short, what is Mr White getting for the job he has under taken, and who is footing the bill? The fact that this able citizen is an easternized American is an assurance that he is not actively pursuing the profession of goldbuggery for purposes of physical culture. Is it impolite to ask him who is putting up the hot stuffthe scads?

More About the Canal.

The status of the Nicaragua canal bill nay be given in a few words. The passage of the bill is asked for on national and not on political grounds The government is asked to loan the canal company its credit to the amount of $70,000,000. The interest at 3 per cent would be $2,100,000 per year. The saving in tolls and time would be $80,-000,000 per year. With such results from a loan of a little over $2,000,000 a year it would be wise for the government to make the loan. The canal would also be a direct saving to the treasury. The cost of sending naval vessels around the Horn is considerable, and this would be saved, while the effectiveness of our navy in case of war would be doubled. If we do not build the canal England will construct it and then control the commerce of the world for an indefinite period. The New York Mail and Express says of the project: The Nicaragua canal, measured by pos the world. Its completion ought to be the crowning work of this century of marvels. It will make ours a great shipbuflding na-tion and will cause the bulk of the world's erce to be carried in American ves-Our Atlantic and gulf ports will be brought 10,000 miles nearer the Pac Cheaper freights will be afforded to the products of our mines, our farms and our factories. in trade matters The bill is unanimously favored by the seventeen members of the special house committee which has had it under consideration. Strange to say the opposition comes from a few democrats who will fillbuster against it. Why there should be any opposition to the bill would be a mystery but for the fact that the Southern Pacific railroad is said to be fighting it. This is the situation at present.

Cotton Next Year.

A correspondent who is supposed to be a cotton expert writes to The New Orleans Times-Democrat as follows: Cotton can be bought in Liverpool for October and November, 1895, that is, next year, at 34 pence, equal to about 44 cents in the interior of the south. Thus the cot-ton grower has before him the cheerful prospect of already knowing that Liverpool will sell him American cotton of next year's growth at 4½ cents before he has put the seed in the ground that is to grow the crop of next year. What better object lesson than this does the southern cotton grower require to show him that an en forced reduction of the cotton acreage imperatively demanded. Another and successful attempt to raise again next year a crop resembling in size the one now marketed will force Liverpool for October-November, 1895, down to 2 to 2½ pence, equal to 3 an 3½ cents at interior points in the south. Far more profitable for the south to buy October-November in Liverpool at 3 pence than to plant a crop which in Europe is already selling at 41/2 cents, or less, on plantations.

If this correspondent is correct in his statements and conclusions our cotton planters would save money by not producing a pound of cotton next year. We have little hope, however, of seeing the acreage greatly reduced. Still, it is the duty of every newspaper and every man with any influence whatever, to urge the farmers to plant less cotton and to diversify their products. When our people adopt this policy and manu facture their cotton at home, they will be able to bring up the price to a profitable figure. Even then, there will be no great prosperity for our agriculturists until we increase the volume of our currency. Under the gold standard it will be hard to arrest the decline of prices.

Voorhees on Silver.

We print in another column some re marks on the silver question by Senator Voorhees. The matter could not be more aptly presented in so brief a shape But how futile his position seems when we remember that he had it in his power to remain true to the people and insist on platform legislation as the price of the repeal of the Sherman law. The gold trust had already done its worst be fore Mr. Voorhees consented, in consider ation of patronage, or else for some rea son that is inscrutable, to assume the responsibility of standing up for a scheme that has plunged the country into untold misery and trouble.

His talk about silver now, apt and un answerable as it is, sounds like a sham and a mockery when we remember the position taken by the senator when he had an opportunity to do his people and his party a service that would have brought him lasting renown.

It will not do to say that Se that the administration would cons to silver legislation after the Sherman law was repealed. He knew then just as well as he knows now, that Mr. Cleveland would oppose such legisla He knew then just as well as he knows now that Mr. Carlisle had gone over into the camp of the Shylocks.

We print the remarks of Mr. Voorhee on silver for the reason that what he says is well worth reading, especially his remarks about flat money, so called But in spite of their truth and aptness his statements leave a bad taste in the mouth-seeing how clear his views are and how fatuously he neglected a great opportunity to carry them out.

But it is not too late for the senato to redeem himself. His views are sound. Let him seek in season and out of ses son to put them in operation. The op portunity will not be lacking. Affairs are approaching a crisis that he and all other friends of the people and of honest money ought to be ready to take advantage of. We sincerely trust that Mr. Voorhees and others who believe with him will be found equal to the occasion.

Going Backward.

The question of selling liquor on Sun day is now agitating New York, and notwithstanding the triumph of Dr. Parkhurst's crusade for morality it seems that a majority of the people favor keeping open saloons during certain hours on Sundays. The Herald has partially polled the city, and the result shows that the people favor Sunday liquor selling. The Morning Advertiser says:

It is time to recognize that the population of the country, particularly of our larger cities, is not the same as that of a century back. We have invited to our shores the people of all climes, and they have ac cepted that invitation, bringing with them ifferent customs, manners and habits from those of our Puritan ancestry. It is folly to attempt to make these people see exactly as we do.

Several other newspapers are on the same line, and it would seem that the good work recently accomplished for law and order and morals is about to be undone.

This is sincerely to be regretted. We hope that New York will remain an American city, and that it will not adopt what is sometimes called the European Sunday. Liquor selling on Sunday may not demoralize the Europeans, but if it is legalized in New York it will be a great injury to the American population of that city, and the evils of poverty and crime will be intensified.

New York will take a long step back ward when she opens her thousands of barrooms on Sunday, and her police, jail and pauper expenses will be doubled.

It now appears that some of the esteeme bankers who were not in the recent syndicate think they ought to have some bonds. They needn't make any fuss about it All they need to do is to tip a wink to Benedict.

The Brooklyn Eagle thinks it is about even with Mr. Hill. Is it also even with Mr. T. C. Platt?

Tillman will wake up some of the breth ren when he takes his seat in the senate. Granny Hoar may as well prepare to exercise his legs and his lungs. Mr. Carlisle ought to be made president so he could appoint Mr. Cleveland secretary of the treasury. Turn about is fair play. There is some talk of Mr. Carlisle for president. The rumor was probably in vented by a western newspaper humorist and his forgiven name is A. H. Lewis, What has become of Colonel Bill Sterrett the man from the southwest, who onc alluded to Mr. Cleveland as an interloper?

We trust the colonel continues in good health. A correspondent wants to know what the bank notes (to be issued under Mr. Carlisle's plan) are to be redeemed in. Corre spondents are hereby requested to ask us comething easy and not to be too curious so early in the game. The talk about "some good western man" is very scattering. It should be gathered together and put under a gi screw. Now that The Richmond Times has def initely announced that it will not suppor Mr. Cleveland for a third term the editor experiences a lonely feeling at night. Having fathered the financial policy of the democrats in congress John Sherman will now proceed to administer on it.

EDIFORIAL COMMENT.

In Richmond, the other day, Colonel R.

C. Wood, representing Mr. Charles Broadway Rouss, of New York, conferred with the committees of a number of confederate organizations with regard to the proposed establishment of a Confed-erate National Memorial Association and eum for confederate records, relics, etc. This is a scheme in which Mr. Rouss who was a faithful private in the confed rate ranks, takes great interest, and it is erate ranks, takes great interest, and it is understood that if a practical plan of co-operation is arranged he will be a generous giver toward making the plan a success. Colonel Wood, who represented Mr. Rouss at the Richmond conference, is a grandson of the late President Zachary Taylor, and also served with distinction in the confederate army. There ought to be no trouble in arranging the details for the proposed confederate museum, especially as Mr. Rouss, who will doubtless be one of its

I would coin them both alike. The people need the assistance of both in full circulation. The free coinage ns the free coinage of the othe of one means the free coinage of the other to my mind. In fact, the American people, the plain working people, have been bene-fited in the last hundred years far more by silver money than by gold money, and the whining cant of sordid avarice which we now hear that 'gold is sound money' and silver is not has the profound contempt of every man familiar with the history and the ents of his country Fixed by Legislation.

"As to the parity of the two metals when coined, even the small children of finance know that the purchasing power of a dollar is not fixed by the quality or the quantity of the material which composes it, but by the law which makes it a legal tender in the payment of debts. The trade dollar of some years ago had 420 grains of silver, and ye was at a discount with the legal tende dollar, which had only 412½ grains. Muc vapid nonsense has been spoken and writen in regard to what is styled 'fiat me The flat of the government simply means thus sayeth the law,' and there was never of gold, silver or paper, other than absolutely and entirely the creature of law. When silver is coined at the ratio of 16 to 1 in gold, or any other ratio, and clothed with the authority of law, it has never failed goid, or any puter ratio, and clothed with the authority of law, it has never failed to be on a par with gold in its purchasing and debt-paying power. The Vienr General Replies to the Card of Bishop Nelson. Atlanta, Ga., December 12, 1834.—Editor Constitution—After waiting some fifty days, during which he has doubtless discovered how extremely distasteful to all fair-minded Protestants have been his efforts to stir up religious strife, the bishop of Georgia deigns to notice my card of October 20th. I am charged by the bishop with insincer-

The bishop has departed somewhat from his lofty plane of solemn exclusiveness and actually perpetrated a joke, thereby showus. But the purport of this brief note is simply to state that the old adage, "busi-ness before pleasure," holds good in my case. TALK OF GEORGIA TOWNS.

Gwinnett county is rapidly developing Last year there was over one hundred miles of new roads opened through the county giving the people public highways to the several depots on the Georgia, Carolina and Northern railroad that run through the county from east to west, have been established for the convenience of the traveling public. This appears at first thought to be a very small thing but it shows great internal improvements going on over the county.

Americus is looming up as a splendid wholesale center. The trade for the past year has been good, but that for the coming year promises to increase in large pro-portions. New territory will be added and the already good railroad facilities will be strengthened. Jobbers push the wholesale business and The Times-Recorder guarantees that Americus, now the commercial metropolis of southwest Georgia, will easily go to the front and command the trade of that entire section.

SILVER IN GEORGIA.

Butler Herald: The principal purpose for which gold and silver have been used and gives them their chief value, has been to use the two metals as money. To give gold the privilege of free coinage and refuse it to silver is not the way to main-tain the parity of the two metals. We are confident that the president or the demo cratic party is wrong on this question.

The policy of the president as to silver may be right, but we are confident it is not democratic; if it is, then there is no difference between democrats and republicans on this issue. We believe a majority of the people stand with true democrats on this issue, and that as fast as practicable they will compel president and congress to obey their will.

LaGrange Graphic: The Macon Telegraph goes on to say that congress should do something to stop this (the gold bond business). Why does it not urge the quickest and surest way to put an end to this outrage and tell Mr. Cleveland that the most sensible way would be for him to pay off the treasury notes in silver when it is necessary, instead of always paying in the coin which Wall street demands—gold—and which it will always demand as long as the present condition of affairs exists. Very Likely That Mr. Carliela's Financial Plan Will Be Endorsed and Recommended to Congress.

men and bankers of Atlanta will gather in the Chamber of Commerce to talk over legislation—and to formulate some recom-mendation to congress containing their views as to what should be done with the currency propositions

The megting is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce, an official call having been sent out by President Stewart Woodson and Secretary H. G. Saunders, of that organization yesterday. The meeting is called for 11 o'clock sharp.

The meeting will no doubt be largely attended by the representative business men and bankers of the city. The proposed legislation with reference to the finances of the country affects the business men of Atlanta as much as it does the business men of any city or section and they propose to have their share in settling the

Just now the discussion of Mr. Carlisle's plan has taken the place of the discussion of the tariff and for the time succeeded the discussion of the silver question. It is agitating the minds of legislators and the business men and bankers all over the country are hanging upon the action of congress. The plan is being discussed at banquets and at business meetings, in hotel corridors, in the columns of newspapers-everywhere.

The plan recommended by Mr. Carlisle, and so ably expounded by him in a speech before the congressional committee, has met with great favor and it is not at all unlikely that it will be recommended by the meeting today. Many of Atlanta's bankers have expressed themselves in favor of the plan and it is expected that they will formally endorse it this morn-

Here is the call for the meeing:

"A special meeting of the members of the Chamber of Commerce will be held today, Thursday, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing the financial agrislation now pending in congress. As all business is vitally interested in the final action taken by congress on this matter, a full attendance is requested. "STEWART F. WOODSON, President."H. G. SAUNDERS, Secretary."

This will be one of the largest of the many conventions that will be held here next year. At the Baltimore meeting there were several hundred bankers and any num ber of newspaper writers on financial topjury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The convention marks an era in financial circles of the country, and it will be easy to see the great advantage that it will be to Atlanta to get this spiendid body of men of affairs to hold their annual session in this city. The outlook is for a much larger convention than has been held in a long while. Many of the members expressed a strong desire to attend the convention if it was held in Atlanta, and Captain Lowny has received many letters since the Baltimore meeting from bankers who did not attend the Baltimore convention, saying that they would certainly be present at the meeting in this city.

ATLANTA GETS THE BANKERS. Next Session of the National Bankers'

Association to Be Held in Atlanta. Atlanta gets the next annual session of the National Bankers' Association. This has been definitely decided. The re-matter in the hands of the executive committee, and that committee, at a meeting held yesterday at Chicago, decided upon Atlanta as the next gathering point of the big assemblage of banking men. This means a large and influential convention for Atlanta. Hundreds of bankers, men representing millions of wealth, will gather in this city. They will have a favorable opportunity to see the south and the advantages that it affords to capitalists, and it is safe to predict that one goodly result of the convention will be a decided influx of investments in the south. The bankers will meet in October during the exposition, and will, of course, take advantage of their opportunity to view the great show. Much credit is due to Captain Robert J. Lowy for his excellent and untiring work in langing the convention to Atlanta. He Well to Baltimore in October, armed with invitations from the clearing house association and the exposition company. He presented the invitations and urged the bankers to come here with such strong elequence that his invitation was accepted, even before the time for deciding the question rolled around. The matter of selecting a meeting place was left to the executive committee and each individual member of this committee informed him before he left Baltimore that he would vote for Atlanta as the place for holding the next convention. The committee met yesterday in Chicago and Captain Lowry was present. Their sion was favorable to Atlanta, and yesterday Captain Lowry sent the following telegram as to their action:

chicago, Ill., December 12.—The execu-icancil of the Bankers' Association of erica have decided to hold their the convention in Atlanta, commenc-the 15th of October, next, and continu-three days. LOCKED HERSELF IN. Acting Under Legal Advice, This Is What Mrs. Shelton did.

What Mrs. Shelton did.

An application for injunction filed yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Annie M. Shelton through her attorneys, Austin & Park, against Rhodes, Smith & Mathews, has back of it a rather sensational story.

On the petition Judge Lumpkin granted a temporary restraining order and set the hearing on the application for injunction on January 12th.

The allegations are that in September Mrs. Shelton borrowed of Rhodes, Smith & Mathews a small sum of money, giving as collateral a bill of sale to a certain set of furniture in her house at the time. Later she purchased furniture and house furnishings to the extent of over $300, and, according to the agreement between herself and the sellers was to sign a contract giving them a title to them until paid for. She agreed to do this, but when the paper was presented she found that it took in the firstramed furniture which was already subject to a bill of sale on non-payment of the amount borrowed.

Mrs. Shelton states that she refused to sign the paper and that Mr. Mathews, who presented it to her at her own house, left and said that he would bring back another. He brought back another paper and Mrs. Shelton states that at the time she was sick in bed. She claims that she asked Mr. Mathews if he had changed it and arranged in bed. She claims that she asked Mr. Mathews if he had changed it and arranged Mathews if he had changed it and arranged it so that the contract contained the reservation of title in only the furniture purchased last. His reply, according to the petition, was in the affirmative. When he left, however, Mrs. Shelton looked at a memorandum book which he had left and saw her first-mentioned property on the list. She at once suspected that something was wrong, and says that she went at once to see Mr. Mathews, who told her that he did include the first furniture in the bill of sale in the contract. She asked him to change it and he refused. it and he refused.

When the first amount fell due, although she was suffering from weak lungs and was subject to severe colds, she began to look about for the money. She went through the heavy December rain and finally raised all or most of the amount necessary to re-lieve the first furniture. She was exhausted from her effort so that two hemorrhages were the result. She alleges that this amount was refused by the firm, and that she was told that her furniture would all be taken away from her. She stated that she didn't care if they took the furniture purchased in October, but did not want her other furniture taken. All day Tuesday a collector, she alleges, stood near her house and kept watch on her Acting under the advice of her attorneys

Mrs. Shelton kept herself locked in all dur-ing yesterday, and it was not until after service was acknowledged on the temporary restraining order that the siege was order-ed raised. From the petition of Mrs. Shel-ton it would appear that she has been perse-cuted and fooled into signing the contract

The horse and hack are under especial custody of Captain John A. Thompson, whose recent ride has impressed upon him the fact that cabs are fearfully and wonderfully made, and that cab horses have more animation than they really seem to have.

The hack retained is the same in which the captain was confined Saturday night when the reckless desertion of the driver left him to the mercy of the steed.

Since then the driver has never returned, and the rightful owner of the hack has failed to turn up.

night screams and bloody ground still re-mains. The hackmen under arrest still tell their stories and the wide contradiction in their statements still lead the officers to believe that behind the whole affair is some dark crime.

Yesterday's developments were not of an enlightening nature. At the morning session of police court several witnesses appeared before the recorder to testify to the screams and noises heard near Victoria treet Friday night.

Miss Mattie Howard was at her home. on the corner of Victoria and Mangum streets. Late Friday night she was starttled by loud screams near her house. It was a woman's voice. "Will, don't cut me. Stop the blood. Don't kill me." She me. Stop the blood. Don't kill me." She could hear these cries distinctly. These were followed by curses, which seemed to the council of the It was lost in the darkness.

The whole neighborhood was alarmed. An hour afterwards the hack was seen coming towards Marietta street. It was being driven slowly. One negro was seen in the seat. Another followed behind. He carried something in his arms that had the appearance of a plank. This was the substance of the testimony introduced before the recorder.

duced before the recorder.

It was learned by the officers yesterday afternoon that Annie Caldwell and Ellen Evans, both women well known, had been seen riding out Marietta street Friday night. Officers Harris and Harper had examined the women before best by order of Captain Thompson they were conducted to police headquarters.

Both women acknowledged that they took a hack ride Friday night, but claim that they were at home before 10 o'clock. Ac-they were at home before 10 o'clock. According to their statement, there was no disorder in the hack, but one said that she thought she broke the glass when she tapped for the calbman to stop. They could not identify Marchman as the hackman who drove them out. Last night a notorious woman was reported missing. It was said that she left home Friday night and since that time nothing has been heard of her. She left the house she occupied with the intention of going, towards Marietta street and was expected to return that night. Nothing was thought of her absence until the arrest of the hackman.

man, whose name was not given to the officers, had received a note from a woman living in the western section of the city saying that she had been cut to pieces in a hack, and asked him to come to see her before she died. These, in effect, were the facts made known to the officers yesterday. Still the case wears a mysterious look. From these facts various theories have

It is claimed by some that two white women were enticed into the cab. Once in and the door closed they were unable to get out without breaking the glass. They were driven to Victoria street and there, in a secluded place, assaulted and murdered. The bodies were carried to the branch down by the old brick yard and hid away.

Some of the officers are not inclined to recent this theory and being the street. accept this theory and claim that the excitement was caused by the debauchees on their way home after a night of carousal. Intoxicated and wild, they shattered the glass door of the hack.

Behind all these theories the fact still remains that Marchman and Bowen tell incredible and conflicting stories.

There is evidently something behind the whole affair, but this the detectives have

FRENCH OPERA.

All arrangements have been completed and Atlanta will, next Monday and Tues-day, be favored with the appearance of the appearance of New the famous French Opera Troupe of New Orleans. Mr. DeGive is to be highly con-Orleans. Mr. DeGive is to be highly congratulated for giving our theatergoers this most excellent attraction, and the Atianta public should feel much complimented, as this is the only city south, outside of New Orleans, which has ever been visited by the French opera.

It is indeed, a great undertaking to bring a company of seventy people from New Orleans to Atianta and to send them back again after two days; but Mr. DeGive has great faith in Atlanta and he feels confident that our people will make the engagement a success.

During the day yesterday librettas in that our people will make the engagement a success.

During the day yesterday librettas in French and English of the operas were sold on the streets and they sold like hot cakes, every one being desirous to become well acquainted with the operas before Monday night.

The repertoire which has been chosen for Atlanta is a grand one, beginning with "La Favorite" Monday night, "Le Barbien de Seville" at matinee Tuesday, and the famous "Les Huguenots" for the last performance.

The principals will be changed at each performance, giving those who attend all the operas a change of faces and different voices each time. The sale of seats for the entire engagement begins this morning at solders.

BERRY FOR JUDGE.

The Mysterious Hackride of Friday Night | Governor Atkinson Names Him as Judge Westmoreland's Successor.

> PRESIDENT VENABLE MADE THE FIGHT The Details of It So Far as They Have Leaked Out from Executive Session-The Governor's View of It.

> The closing day of the session was sen sational only in the senate end of the general assembly, and there because of the fight over one of the governor's appoint-

That was the appointment of Mr. John D. Berry to be judge of the criminal branch of the city court of Atlanta for the term of four years, from August 24, 1895.

The contest for the position between Mr.

Berry and Mr. Harry Reid has been quite a lively one, a great deal of pressure being brought to bear on the governor by the friends of each gentleman, but so far as these two were concerned, the contest was settled by the appointment of Mr. Berry, which was sent to the senate with several other appointments yesterday morning. The fight was not over, however. When the senate went into executive session there was a fight upon Mr. Berry. It was made by President Venable, who took the floor and spoke against confirmation, alleging, so it is said, that not only was Mr. Berry not the choice of the Atlanta bar, but that he had little practice in the court, and in-question for his capability for the office. How much discussion there was over the question nobody knows. It was, however, alleged or intimated that Mr. Berry was not a citizen of Atlanta, or had been but short while, and the fact that his former home was Newnan, was used with the idea that Governor Atkinson was paying a political debt.

timating, if not alleging, that there was

At least this was the talk about the lobbies after the executive session had dissolved. The vote on confirmation was 9 to 32.

After this action had been taken some of the members of the senate, thinking they had been too hasty in the matter, brought about a reconsideration of the action at the afternoon session and there, after a brief presentation of the facts, a motion to refer the appointment to a committee, as is usually done when there is opposition, prevailed. The action of the senate in failing to confirm was, therefore, rescinded. This carries the question of confirmation over to the next session of the legislature. Later reports concerning the proceedings of the second executive session show that was decidedly lively in character. Before the house closed the doors Mr. Harry Reid was circulating among the members, urging them not to consider his personality in their deliberations. Mr. James F. O'Neill, Mr. John Hutchinson, Mr. T. B. Felder, Mr. E. P. Black, Mr. Charley Hill, Mr. Eb Williams, Mr. Arnold Broyles and a number of others, in the interest of Mr. Berry, declared that the action of rejecting a man without a hearing should not be permitted to stand. As Mr. O'Neill came out of the chamber, upon the closing of the doors, he said: "That rejection will be reconsidered. I know what I am talking about." No sooner had the doors been closed than another delegation of lawyers arrived, who were refused admittance. "But we must get in," said Mr. Charley

Hopkins. The doorkeeper was inexorable. At last Mr. Frank Arnold succeeded in having a note passed into Senator Long. This party was opposed to the confirmation of Mr. Berry. Among them were Mayor Goodwin, Judge Pendleton, Reub Arnold, Jr., Jerome Simmons, Jack Stewart and others. They set themselves up in the senate judiciary committee room and sent for several senators. Senator Brand, a friend of Mr. Berry, was one of the first to come out, and he was plied with requests. Then Senator Monroe was brought into the committee room and urged by Mayor Goodwin, so it is reported, to give the practicing lawyers of Atlanta a chance. Meantime there was life within the senate walls. As soon as the nomination of Professor Glenn to be commissioner of education was read and confirmed Senator Long claimed the attention of the chair. "I feel," said he, "that injustice has been done by our action of this morning. A nominee has been rejected without a hearing. He was rejected, too, with charges brought against him by the senator from the thirty-fifth which he should have an opportunity to answer. If he was so unfit for the office that he ought not to have been given the usual opportunity of defense, then his nomination by the governor was a reflection on the executive. This I cannot admit. I, therefore, move a recon sideration of the vote by which Mr. Berry

Senator Venable, with considerable show of feeling; resented the statement that "charges" had been made against the nominee. He opposed the nomination because Mr. Berry was not ranked among the active practitioners at the bar of the city, from whose ranks the selection should be made. The conflict between the two senators was smoothed down by other senators. When the vote was called the motion to reconsider was so far ahead that Senator Venable moved to make it unanimous. It was then resloved that no action should be taken upon the nomination, but that it should be allowed to lapse by expiration of the session. This necessitate a new nomination when the senate meets next October. Under the law Judge Westmoreland's iterm does not expire until August of next year. At that time Governor Atkinson may make an ad interim sent in to the senate.

"I have nothing to say about the matter," said the governor last evening, "except this: Mr. Berry had the strongest kind of endorsements, and seemed to be the choice of a majority of the people of Atlanta. As to legal qualifications, he was endorsed by some of the most eminent lawyers of the state, including two judges of the supreme court, judge of the United States court, a number of superior court judges, and a number of eminent lawyers both here and throughout the state; men who would not. I believe, give endorse ments of that character unless they meant it. I can say just this, that I stand by

What Governor Atkinson Says.

"This," continued the governor, "is not a fight on Mr. Berry. His endorsements are overwhelmingly strong, and his character and ability are too well known to leave any doubt as to his thorough fitness for the office. This fight upon me comes from an element of people in Atlanta, who, unable to defeat me in the nomination, have resorted to this sort of warfare in the hope that they may break down my administration. I was glad to see that as soon as the senate had time to think it readily reconsidered its action, and I feel sure there will be no trouble in the future about this matter." Among those who urged upon the senate that they reconsider their action-and many prominent citizens of Atlanta were there to urge such reconsideration-was Mr. Harry Reid, the unsuccessful applicant for the appointment. Mr. Reid's stand in the matter won him many friends. President Venable was one of his supporters, and he urged the president not to let any personal considerations enter into the matter at all, that is any considerations of friendship for him, as he considered the appointment of the governor eliminated himself from consideration.

The Male Quartet Takes a Prominent Part in a Musical Recital. Part in a Musical Recital.

The Apollo male quartet made practically its first public appearance at the Freyer & Bradley recital hall, for the benefit of the Business Woman's Club, last night, in a programme which aroused the enthusiasm of the audience to the highest degree. The quartet sang several selections, showing a versatility quite remarkable. The numbers ranged from the most serious and lofty compositions to the light, airy and comic, and they were equally effective in all. Mr. J. M. Mayer played several piano solos. Mr. L. P. Hills recited. Mr. H. G. Simpson played a violin solo, and received two recalls. Mr. Will King and Mr. William Jessop sang solos in a highly artistic manner.

New York, December 12.—The passing of the Patterson bill, allowing pooling by the railroads, led to a more confident feeling in stock circles at the opening this morning and a general advance in prices took place. The proposed change in the interstate commerce law referred to above had a good effect abroad, and London sent in some buying orders for St. Paul and other international stocks. The Grangers were most prominent in the early rise and advanced 14 to 1 per cent. After the spurt at the opening the market became quieter, but the advance was well maintained, the result of Washington advices that the senate will act favorably and quickly upon the Patterson bill when it reaches that body. In the afternoon Sugar loomed into prominence, and on a more active business the price rose to 90½, ex-dividend of 3 per cent. The rise near the close was due to the announcement that the senate had refused to take up the house free sugar bill. Early Morning Gossip.

Dow, Jones News Co., by private wire to J. C. Knox, manager: A primary specula-tive interest in Sugar sold early in the day and again at the close Tuesday. Meantime, what is called the German refining interest was credited with lifting the price. Traders sold Sugar on the theory, often right, that the stock would fall when ex-dividend. Interests identified with the bull side said this time would prove an exception and that Sugar could be bought if it declined. A very good authority on Sugar speculation said Tuesday night that the essential change in Sugar is that there are now two sides to speculation in the stock. Until re cently there has been only one side. Everything from inside sources was bearish. Now the former friends of the property are willing to buy Sugar on reasonable dewilling to buy Sugar on reasonable de-clines and sell on ordinary advances. There is likely to be a good trading market in Sugar between 85 and 90 for two or three months to come months to come.

Sugar was quoted ex-dividend 3 per cent yesterday.

It was reported yesterday that a prominent interest in Distillers and Cattle Feeders, which has been short of stock, and which expected to cover on the proposed assessment, had given orders to buy a certain line at the market price. The price was depressed at the opening, but without obtaining stock. A round line, however, was found and taken. Bache & Co. were the largest buyers near the close, taking about 4,000 shares. This buying caused some bull talk last night, but was not generally credited.

Financial Gossip.

New York Stockholder, Dec

It would seem, therefore, that while manipulators talk of bettering conditions, important reorganizations backed up by the most powerful bankers in the world, go to the wall because anticipated improvement founded does not materialize. For it appears also that the Reading plan will also be practically abandoned.

Naturally the foregoing depressed the bankrupt coal stocks and sympathetically the dividend payers, which were weak, due undoubtedly to the fact that the anthracite sales agents' November meeting, at which restricted production for December was agreed upon, is rendered farcical by the output last week of over a million tons, of against 2500,000, the faced output.

Such a heavy, production could not fall to precipitate renewed depression in an already demoralized market, and a resultant shrinkage in the already contracted revenues of the anthracite properties. It looks as if insiders were willing to take care of themselves in this emergency. From Jersey Central has come principally the recent pressure for meetings to restrict—from insiders coincidently what stock the market with the stock of the month's proportion of dividend.

It seems remarkable that eastbound tonnage should fall week after week below the record of the panic year. The farings in light business: Burlington and the total last week was but $6,000 against $2,000 in 1830, a decrease of 17,000 tons, representing, of course, a large hole in Trunk line revenues.

The Granger stocks were heavy. The week opened without much change in the Chicago car movement. Of corn 400 cars came in. The Granger lines handled as usual a light business: Burlington 28, Rock Island 14, Northwest nothing, 51. Fault of $6,000 against 26,000 in 1830, a decrease of 17,000 tons, representing, of course, a large hole in Trunk line revenues.

The Granger stocks were heavy. The week opened without much change in the facts in thi tober $21,000.

Will It Be Passed?

From The New York Indicator.

Predictions are being made in London that the St. Paul will pass its next dividend. It will take some time to prove the correctness or falsity of that report, as the next dividend is not payable until April next. But why pass dividend? The company pays 4 per cent per annum on the common stock, and a reduction of the semi-arnual dividend to 1 per cent would save $450,000 for the six months, and we don't think the net for the current six months will go behind last year's record as much as that.

A chicago dispatch announces that the

as that.

A chicago dispatch announces that the next dividend on Rock Island will be ½ per cent. Quite likely the reduction made last month was probably not intended to be for one quarter only. As a 2 per cent stock, however, Rock Island looks cheap along-side a government bond, and so does every dividend paying railroad stock on the list.

THE COTTON MARKET. Local market closed quiet; middling 5 1-16c. The following is our statement of the receipts, ship nents and stocks at Atlanta:

New York, December 12.—Perhaps the most significant feature today was the announcement that on December 19th 27,000 packages of cotton goods will be offered at auction in this city. That undoubtedly indicates a poor state of trade in the dry goods world. It was something of a shock to many in the cotton trade to find that such a sale would be necessary. Last season when 17,000 packages of cotton goods were offered at auction it was considered something decidedly important, but the sale to take place a week from today is considerably larger and comes in what many believe a big crop year—that is a year in which the yield is anywhere from 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 bales. Liverpool was a little better at first, however, than some had expected and early in the session there was an advance of 1 point. Later on this was lost and the close was quiet at a decline for the day of 2 points with sales 92,500. New Orleans receipts tomorrow were a bullish feature, but had very gittle effect. They are estimated, at 8,000 to 10,000 bales against 14,453 last year. Arrivals at the ports today were 55,886 against 43,688 last year. Total thus far this week 222,780 against 228,770 the same time last week. Exports from the ports today 22,000. Spot prices were reduced 1.16c at New York, Mobile and St. Louis. New Orleans and Norfolk were easy at unchanged prices. New Orleans declined 5 points for future delivery. Mississippi sent offers of spot cotton ¼ lower than yesterday. Other sections of the south were offering more freely. Houston received 8,704 against 5,464 last year; Augusta 1,117 against 894; Memphis 2,392 against 3,779, and St. Louis 2,164 against 1,588. The spot trade in this country was light. The interior semi. weekly receipts as resorted at New Orleans were 17,000 against 1,900 for the same time last year and 98,000 in 1891. For the whole week last year the interior receipts were only 166,625. Manohester private cables were gloomy. Dispatches from Geor

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, December 12.—(Special.)—It is still a waiting market both here and in Liverpool. The bears are afraid to sell and the bulls are timid about buying. Such trading as takes place is mainly of a local character. The slight improvement reported in the first advices from Liverpool caused a better opening here and May sold on the call at 5.77. The market then gradually weakened, mainly owing to the absence of business. May declining to 5.71. The announcement about midday that receipts at New Orleans would be light tomorrow caused a spurt of buying and May in a few minutes railied to 5.76, but the demand was soon satisfied and prices again sagged. The close was quiet, with May at 5.72@5.73. In the present apathetic condition of the market any attempt to forecast the immediate future of prices is mere guess work, but we feel satisfied that any further decline will be inconsiderable in degree and of brief duration, while an advance of very serious importance to the bears may surprise the trade at any time. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, December 12.—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: Liverpool appears to have paid little attention to the strength of the American contract market yesterday and closes quizt and steady at a shade lower than last evening. The markets here remain what might be termed in a dormant state awaiting further developments regarding the movement of the crop. It is assumed by most of the merchants that 6.800,000 bales will be in sight on the first of January, and this amount of cotton, with the 160,000 bales carried over from last season should supply the cosumptive requirements of the world. In the afternoon a number of selling orders from southern markets were apparent, with the effect of closing the market here quiet and steady at a shade lower than last evening. A casual census of opinion among members of the trade points to a general belief that at some time this year a material advance will occur upon the probability of reduced acreage and a reduction in the supply next season.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, December 12—Wheat opened easy this morning, fluctuated aimiessly during the most of the session between narrow boundaries, but finally closed hard, firm and highery the final tone being ascribed to the action of corn. There was hardly anything of interest in the way of news that affected prices. May opened from 59½605%c., sold between 59½605%c., and 59½605%c., crosing at the outside, ½60½c. higher than yesterday. Cash wheat was quiet and steady.

Corn—The receipts and the estimates scared the corn shorts today. The former were 185 cars and the latter 78 cars. The anxiety did not take definite shape nor result in unusual strength until near the close, when prices responded actively to the covering and advanced to the outside point of the day, which was ½c. higher than yesterday for May. May corn opened at 50c., sold between 49½ and 50½c., closing at the latter. There was no change in cash corn.

Oats were dull, quiet and without par-

The principal change made by the senate and acceded to by the house is that taking the appointment of registrars from the strand jury and aving it to the judge of the superior court. Another very important change was continued in the clause which made the boards of partisan. This amendment had been urged in the committee room of the house but was not exactly in good shape, and therefore, that provision was left out of he bill as originally passed by the house. Thre was, however, no serious objection tothis provision and it was adopted. The different changes in the registration law we explained by Speaker Fleming, Mr. Beding and other members of the house whehave taken active interest in the passas of the bill, and in its INSTITUTE opulist bills which created so much on a few days age, and which were set as special order for yesterday morning, consumed about three hours of time, but both were lost.

These were the bills of Mr. Montfort to abolish the county court of Taylor county, and of Mr. Bell to abolish the county court THE MILITARY WILL GET $15,000 of Jackson county.

The first bill taken up was that of Mr.

Montfort. It had been reported upon adversely by the special judiciary committee but the report at a former session of the house had been disagreed to. The passage of the bill was very strongly urged by Mr Howell, who took the ground that the rights of the representatives in local matters should be respected. He argued that it was evident that the people of the county, or the majority of them at least, were in favor of the abolition of the court, and he thought the bill should pass. Mr. Polhill and Mr. McMichael argued against the bill; Mr. Montfort and Mr. Baggett for it. Under the call for the previous question Mr. Walden and Mr. Howell urged the pas-sage of the bill, and Mr. Wilson, Mr. Farmer and Mr. McCurry opposed it. The bill received a majority of those voting, but did not get the required constitutional majority, and so was lost. The vote was 73 to 65.

The Jackson county bill came up next. Mr. Sell, Mr. Holland and Mr. Fleming urged the passage of the bill; Mr. Johnson, of Hall; Mr. Redding and Mr. McCurry opposed it. Here again the report of the committee was sustained and the bill was killed by a vote of 52 to 64.

The Tax Act. The only amendment which the house made to any of the senate amendments on the tax act was on that placing a tax of $500 on packing houses. The house amended this by cutting the tax to $50, it being pointed out that the $500 tax was simply pro-

The following unique joint resolution was introduced in the house today:

"Resolved, That it is a species of blackmail for any person or persons to come into the capitol grounds of this state and obtain by solicitation or otherwise the pictures or sketches of the lives of the members of the legislature of Alabama for publication in any newspaper or periodical.
"Be it further resolved, That it is hereby made a part of the duty of the doorkeeper to eject such persons so inclined from the capitol."

made a part of the duty of the doorseeper to eject such persons so inclined from the capitol."

The resolution was introduced by a populist, that a committee by appointed to investigate whether any of the state's money had been used to pay the inauguration expenses of Governor Oates. This resolution was also referred to the committee on rules.

Mr. Knight, of Hall, introduced a bill into the house today providing for an appropriation of $15,000 for the purchase of a suitable mansion for the governor of Alabama. Such a measure was recommended by Governor Oates, in his recent message, and most of the democratic members of the house appear to favor it.

Mr. John, of Jefferson, introduced a bill in the house today to create the northern chancery division of Alabama. The bill proposes to embrace in that division the following counties: Lauderdale, Limestone, Madison, Jackson, DeKalb, Marshall, Morgan, Colbert, Lawrence, Franklin and Marlon.

A Word at Parting. The speaker held this resolution not germane.

Then Mr. Pitman moved that both the resolutions and his amendment be tabled. Mr. Fogarty asked if that motion could be construed as inimical to the subject matter of either resolution.

Mr. Pitman replied that it was not in any sense whatever. He had made the motion simply in order that the two matters could be considered at the same time.

The motion to table prevailed by a vote of 70 to 24.

through all its stages in both houses, making Senator McGarrity's triumph complete.

The Game Law.

An effort on the part of legislators from South Georgia to extend the time for killing game from January 1st to March 1st, met a curious fate. It passed the house, reached the senate, was favorably reported by committee, which was disagreed to on motion of Senator Boyd, and then the bill was laid on the table. In the evening session, during the absence of Senator Boyd, pressure was brought to bear and the bill was taken from the table and passed. On Senator Boyd's return he called the attention to the matter and moved a reconsideration. After a sharp debate the passage of the bill was reconsidered and the hasty plece of legislation was thrown out.

The Newman School Fees.

The Newman School Fees. A house bill allowing the public schools of Newnan to collect the pro rata of tuition of Newman to collect the pro rata of tultion, for rural students who attend them was passed. An effort was made by senator Bush to have this reconsidered, as it was opposed to the policy of the state school commission board, but the members decided that the people should have the right of sending their children to school where they liked and get the money for the same. The Closing Hours.

The closing hour of the senate was passed in very complimentary mood.

Senator Harris, of the twenty-second, said: "This is the best senate with which I have ever served."

Senator Long amended by saying: "This is the best looking senate I ever saw."

Senator Harris paid a high compliment to President Venable, who had been forced by sickness to go home early in the evening. "Without legislative experience," said Senator Harris, "he has mastered the science of parliamentary law, and his administration will compare favorably with any other. I move a unanimous vote of thanks to President Venable." Which was given standing. Other complimentary resolutions were passed, one of them thus, by Senator Brand:

"Resolved, That the thanks of the senators are given to Miss Pet Mansfield, daughter of Hon. Joseph Mansfield, representative of the county of McIntosh, for lighting up the closing hours of this senate with her presence."

President Pro Tem. Brand, who held the gavel during the night, after a few felicitious words, adjourned the senate sine die.

Hon. Lee Hightower, of Early, is conceded to be the handsomest man in the house. The speaker appointed Messrs Bird, Eden-field and Law as a committee to attend the commencement exercises at the School for Colored Youth at Savannah.

At night, during the various recesses, there were he usual mock sessions, at which considerable fun was created. The star of the occasion was Mark Spyers, the senate page, whose imitations are very clever indeed. Judge Newson sang and recited, Senator Bussey came in and told some good stories, as did Captain "Tip" Harrison, and the usual local hits were gotten off at the expense of the various members. Mr. Blalock, of Rabun, presided.

VTHE SENATE STANDS FIRM. And Succeeds in Saving $15,000 for the Military. Important transactions in the senate are elsewhere recorded. The executive session of the morning showed a starp diver gence with the governor, while that of the afternoon helped somewhat to heal.

The carrying of the bill for the election The carrying of the bill for the election of state school commissioner by the people, over an adverse committee report, was the result of the same vote—32 yeas, as was cast in the nay column against the confirmation of Mr. Berry. Whether it was anything more than a coincidence cannot be stated.

The Legislative Business. The legislative business of the day was the passage of a resolution for the senate to adhere to its amendments to the appropriation bill. "We should," said Senator N. E. Har. "We should," said Senator N. E. Harris, "stand firm all along the line. The conference committee appointed, consisted of Messrs. Lewis, Harris, Boyd, Cumming, Beeks and Bussey. It was not until within a few minutes of midnight that they came to an understanding with the house committee upon $15,000 for the state military, and one or two other items.

Colleges Are Going to Teach the Science of Writing Catchy Ads-A Few Pointers for Advertisers.

Eastern colleges are beginning to recognize the value of a business education. The annual report of a New York college, detailing plans for next year, outlines a "business course in which not only the ordinary commercial branches will be taught, but typewriting, stenography and the fun-damental principles underlying the art of writing advertisements."

damental principles underlying the art of writing advertisements."

There is something new.

Advertising has long been recognized as a fine art by business men, and there are many tales afloat of the princely salaries paid to advertising writers, but the "underlying principles" have usually been kept safe and sound beneath the hats of men who write advertisements. A good, catchy, taking, comprehensive, readable advertisement is not one of the easiest things in the world to write. As a usual thing, experience is the best school for the advertising artist to attend. But the best advertisements that ever sparkled on a newspaper or in a magazine were arranged on the spur of the moment. A sudden and unexpected combination of words and circumstances gave the quick-brained writer a catch sentence, which afterward became a household word.

But in one respect the man who writes advertisements is like every one else. The more general his knowledge the better equipped he is for his work. The more liberal his education the smoother his path to success.

Perhaps this college that intends teaching Perhaps this college that intends teaching the art and science of advertising realizes how heavily handicapped is the man who has but little schooling.

The Constitution recognizes that fact, and so made its famous and popular Encyclopaedia Britannica proposition. It made arrangements whereby the new edition of this great work may be obtained by any reader of The Constitution at introductory prices and on the easy terms of ten cents a day. But it should be borne in mind that this liberal offer terminates December 28th, after which date our received. this liberal offer terminates December 24th, after which date our readers, like all others, must pay full retail prices.

"The undersigned members of the house of representatives respectfully protest against the action of the majority of this body in defeating the amendment of the representative from Choctaw, to include that county in house bill 322, which provided for making the office of superintend-ent of education elective instead of ap-pointive, for the following reasons: "1. The above protest was signed by thirty populist members.

Rev. A. B. Vaughan, of Canton, Ga., was in the city yesferday and related the following experience:

"My eyes have been defective all my life. A number of years ago I underwent an operation at the hands of a most skiller ful oculist and suffered the intensest pain without obtaining the hoped-for relief. Last spring I saw my friend, Mr. J. H. Barnes, the well-known shoe merchant of Marietta, after his eyes had been successfully operated upon by Dr. J. Harvey Moore, the oculist of this city. Mr. Barnes was delighted with the result of the operations on his eyes and urged me to go at once to see Dr. Moore, but I hesitated for some time, fearing the pain and was also afraid of the result. Finally I went to see Dr. Moore and with his assurance that I would suffer no pain and that my eyes would be improved I allowed him to operate, and I can say from actual experience that Dr. Moore's operation is absolutely painless. Six months have elapsed and the result of Dr. Moore's operation is most gratifying. It has not only made great improvement in the appearance of my eyes, but the improvement in my vision is wonderful. I can now see to read Greek at night, something I never could do before, and as I am very fond of reading the New Testament in the Greek, it is a great comfort to me. A few nights ago I became interested and read Greek until midnight and felt no ill effects from it since. It is wonderful and I have Dr. J. Harvey Moore to thank for it. You can refer anybody to me who wishes to know anything about him, for I know from experience that he possesses wonder ful skill."

IT IS VIOLET DAY.

Today Will Be One of the Most Notable of the Bazear.

A LARGE CROWD ON HAND YESTERDAY

And It Was a Most Successful Day-Some of the Contests That Are Exciting Much Interest—Programme for Today.

The bazaar had a most successful day yesterday morning, afternoon and evening.

Mrs. A. B. Steele had charge of the restaurant and she was ably assisted by a number of prominent ladies who served and gave the most prompt and courteous and gave the most prompt and courteous attention to all visitors. The menu served was most delicious and dainty and the charge of 50 cents is certainly a very small one for such bountiful and deliciously prepared meals. A great many business men come there now every day for their luncheons and it is the endeavor of the ladies to serve them promptly and satisladies to serve them promptly and satis-

The voting contests in the different booths are creating a great deal of in-terest. The two hotel clerks, Mr. Ed Brown and Mr. Ed Calloway, are running a close race for the prize at Mrs. James O'Neill's booth.

The bankers and insurance men are be ing voted for assiduously at Mrs. Morris Brandon's booth, and just now it is diffi-cult to tell which will be the two fortucult to tell which will be the two blad-nate winners of the handsome prizes offer-ed. Mr. Clarence Knowles, Mr. Robert Shedden and Mr. Peter Grant are ahead at present in the insurance list, and Mr. Robert Maddox, Mr. Tom Erwin, Mr. Joe Orme and Mr. John Ottley are leading on the bankers' side the bankers' side.

Some lovely things were sent in yesterday to the tissue paper booth, among them a lampshade, made by Miss Julia Hammond and Miss Dorothy Colquitt, that is charming and unique. It is made of soft opague white paper and adorned with clusters of lovely amarylis lilles.

A beautiful lampshade of pink tissue

A beautiful lampshade of pink tissue paper caught here and there with clusters of pink and white chrysanthemums was presented by Miss Redding. Miss Harwood sent in two most unique paper boxes with tops all adorned with tiny frills and clus-

The contest began yesterday at Mrs. Dick-The contest began yesterday at Mrs. Dick-scn's booth between Miss Katie Cox and Miss Cantrell, of Nashville, for the dia-mond ring to be awarded the one voted as the most beautiful and attractive of the two is exciting a great deal of interest. Miss Cox is undoubtedly one of the hand-somest and loveliest girls in the state of Georgia, and Miss Cantrell has a reputa-tion second to none in her own state as being a belle and beauty, therefore, the race between them will be a very close one. Miss Cantrill has many friends and ad-mirers here, and Miss Cox has been known here all her life, and everybody is devoted

Each one of the young ladies have a host of admirers voting for them. Miss Shedden, who adorns the topmost height of the dolls pedestal, looks on with calm inciance upon the people as they come and The fact that she has been put up on block to be sold like the Greek slave of old, disturbs her not one whit. She sees the little girls with their yearning eyes, but is not moved to the consoling smile by cir covetousness for she is not so many other fair creations in the hands of fate and she is to go to the little girl who will chip off her nose and soil her fine garments why she can't help it—that is all. At night, though, when all the lights are out and the gay crowd has departed she shudders now and then to think that she may be too fine to play with at all and be shut up in some to play with at all and be shut up in some chilly dungeon-like parlor with the bric-abrac. She tells this fear to the other dolls beneath her, dropping meanwhile a few glassy tears upon their silken locks, but they only mock at her woe as is the wont of live ladies upon finding out the burdens attached to those of higher positions than their own. But this only makes her colder and haughtler and the next day she has her revenge when the fathers and mothers. her revenge when the fathers and mothers come and vote for her and the little girls cry for her worse than they ever did for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

The little girls who have the most votes to date are May Atkinson, Louise Collins and Alice May Freeman. ,

Mrs. Clarke Howell has charge of Mrs Tompkin's colonial booth today. There are a number of handsome things here to be raffled, among them an exquisite theater bonnet from O'Neills, and a wrap from Boston, a very handsome oil painting of chrysanthemums oil painting of chrysanthemums by Mr. James Field and a charming water color by Parker Mann, of Washington, D. C. The domestic venture is coining money. Everybody has found it to be a risk well worth taking for the small sum of a quarter and so the patronage is very brisk.

Last night was the brightest evening since the bazaar opened. All the officers from Fort McPherson were out, and their dashing uniforms lent a most distinguished air to the large gathering which filled the armory from 7 until 11 o'clock. Dancing was enjoyed all the evening to the delightful music furnished by the regiment band and everybody present seemed to be having the Mrs. Clement Evans was very successful with her booth yesterday. Among the many donations which she has received is a beautiful mandolin from the Estey Organ Company. This will be sold at exactly the same price charged by that firm, and it certainly should have a buyer. It is a lovely instrument. The cozy corner presented to Mrs. Low-ry's booth for ruffling is a charming thing and a great many chances have been tak en upon it. The exquisite pillows sold here are just as reasonable as can be. Indeed, there is not one of them that would not be valued at a higher price in any busi

The army booth is making a great deal of and lovely things for sale.

Today Mrs. Joseph Thompson, president of the woman's department of the Cotton States and International exposition, will take charge of the restaurant, and she has take charge of the restaurant, and she has made every arrangement that will go to the making of a beautiful room and service in that department. Mrs. Clarence Knowles will be her able assistant and she will herself make one of the chaffing dishes. It is a Believue stew, an epicurea and delicious dish, for which she is famous, although it would be difficult to say in what brench of dainty and artistic chaffing dish cookery Mrs. Knowles is most perfect. Mrs. Henry Wilson has done all of the gathering together off donations for this day and has relieved and assisted Mrs. Thempson in a great many ways.

The decorations of the restaurant will be of violets, Mrs. Thompson's favorite flower, and one with which her intimate friends always associate her. Pretty candlesticks of Drosden china, scattered with violets and having violet tapers and shades, will be placed or the same blossoms.

The center table, where special supper and luncheon parties are served, will have as its ornament a Dresden china lamp, painted in violets, with a soft, fluffy shade, caught gracefully here and there with clusters of the same, and this will be encircled by a wreath of violets and pink roses. The charlotte russe, pattles and confections will be served in violet cases, in the form of hats, baskets, etc., and the pretty maids who assist in waiting upon the patrons will wear white awiss aprons and caps, adorned with the Napoleonic flower. The cakes will be decorated with violet icing and one of them will be cut for prizes in the shape of china pin tray and other tollet articles decorated with violets.

Violet boutonniers will be sold to the dancers at the tissue paper booth, and to be in perfect harmony every woman who visits the armory today—hould have a bit of that shade about her.

The scheme in carrying out the violet motif in every detail on this day will be an indescribably charming one and it certainly means a great deal in connection with Mrs. Thompson, for no flower could so perfectly bespeak her refinement and beauty as does this one which she has always had in great clusters in her apartments and always worn in the laces and furs about her throat.

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Knowles will be assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. Henry Wilson, Mrs. Charles Sciples, Mrs. A. V. Gude, Mrs. E. Rich, Mrs. Wooten, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. W. D. Ellis, Mrs. A. W. Hill, Mrs. C. S. Northen, Mrs. Henry Tanner, Mrs, Iverson, Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. Stocking, Mrs. Willinman, Mrs. Ravenel, Mrs. Crankshaw, Mrs. Charles Collier, Mrs. Virgil Harden, Mrs. W. H. Venable, Mrs. T. D. Meador, Mrs. John S. Clarke; Miss Joan Clarke, Miss Margaret Newman, Miss Louile Markham, Miss Belie Newman, Miss Margaret Newman, Miss Julia Wilkins, Miss Searcy, Miss Bates, Miss Annie May Hall, Miss Hammond, Miss Frances Harwood, Miss Adelia Murphy.

The menu cards have been painted by Miss Belle Newman in dainty violet designs. The menu will be printed a lacarte, so that one can order just what one wishes. The menu is as follows:

LUNCH.

The return of Miss Joan Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson to Atlanta after their long absence abroad is a source of great pleasure to their many friends here. They were greatly missed in society, for they are most attractive and popular people. Miss Clarke is looking prettier than ever and her good dressing, which was always one of her distinguishing characteristics, is even more noticeable by reason of the many charming tollets she has brought from London and Paris.

Miss Lola Garrett, of Augusta, one of the most charming and popular young de-butants of this season, is visiting her class-mate, Miss Hattle Mae Mitchell, at 213

Miss Irene Woolfolk, of Albany, Ga., who has been in the city for a few adys the guest of Miss Saida Williams, 407 Courtland street, has returned to her home. Miss Williams, accompanied her and will spend the holidays in Albany with Miss Woolfolk.

Miss Addavale Kincaid, of Griffin, is visiting General Evans's family on Peachtree street. Miss Kincald is recognized as one of Georgia's loveliest and most popular

Miss Ida Rochester, a beartiful and attractive young lady from Central, S. C., who has been visiting friends and relatives in the city for several weeks, returned to her home Tuesday night. Invitations have been received in Atlan-ta from the Catholic Association of Balti-more to the golden wedding of Colonel and

Mrs. Richard Malcolm Johnston on Tuesday evening, December 11th, at 8 o'clock. The entertainment will occur in the Lyceum parlors on Charles street. Miss Katie Durand is very much prostrat-ed from her long and serious illness, and fears are entertained that her recovery will be very slow. Mrs. D. Shaver, Jr., of Augusta, is visiting Mrs. Wallace P. Reed, 67 Fairlie street. Mrs. Shaver's charming personality and winning social graces have made her as popular in Atlanta and other cities where she is known as she is in Augusta, where she is a general Yavorite. Mrs. R. P. Brooks, of Forsyth, Ga., who has been visiting friends at the Talmadge house, left for her home yesterday.

Miss Louise Moses, one of the most charming young ladies of Columbus, Ga., is in the city, visiting Mrs. I. Liebmann, 311 Washington street.

The concert which was to be given by the Atlanta Vocal Society on Friday of this week, has been unavoidably postponed until January 4th. Tickets which have been secured for December 14th, will be good for January 4th.

Miss Lina Walters, the queenly Savannah debutante, spent several hours in Atlanta yesterday, after a two weeks' visit to Miss May Hull, of Athens, where she was delightfully entertained.

Miss Clara Morrison, one of Atlanta's most popular and well-known young ladies, has gone to Morristown, Tenn.

Misses Georgia and Susan Moore, Charlotte, N. C., are in the city, visiting relatives and friends, and will remain in Atlanta for several weeks.

Miss Florence Green, of Forest avenue, is visiting Mrs. D. G. Lester, of Savannah. One of the most popular and attractive of the pupils of Norwood Institute, Miss Mary Phelps, of Mississippi, married Count Piola Caselli, of the Italian army, and is now living in Rome.

Boarding pupils of Norwood Institute are now interested in the children's hospital, and are getting up a Christmas box for the benefit of the afflicted little ones dependent on charity.

The exceptional opportunities for general culture afforded by the capital of the United States render the CITY OF WASHINGTON. . . , opportunities are utilized to the utmost by the pupils of Norwood institute, under the conduct of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Cabell, assisted by a corps of efficient instructors. The distinguishing feature of Norwood institute is the thoroughness of its prelim inary training, and the care bestowed upon those elementary branches too often neglected in schools of otherwise great excellen ce.

NORWOOD INSTITUTE is situated in the most beautiful portion of Washington on August 21, 1893:

My Dear Mr. Cabell: I am sure Norwood institute will continue to grow in public fa vor as the beneficent results it is accom-plishing become more widely known. The training my daughter, Mrs. Micou, received there has endeared the school to her and to me, and I feel very sure that if parents who have daughters to educate will only inform themselves as to the advantages offered at Norwood the most abundant prosperity will come to this great enterprise of Mrs. Cacome to this s. co.

Colonel Jones asked him if he had not been troubled by the revenue offhad not been troubled by the revenue officers on account of selling whisky without a license. He stated that he had, but not recently. The testimony of the witness was carefully sifted on the cross-examination. His oldest son, George, was in jail, charged with the whipping of Blankenship. The district attorney had agreed to make it light for both the witness and his son if they would make a clean breast of the whole transaction.

Charley Pritchert, a young boy, was the next witness introduced. He lived at Tilton and knew the defendants on trial. The whipping of Blankenship occurred on Sat-

He admitted on the cross-examination that he had been out of work for several months and was staying at his uncle's, in Gordon county. His uncle's name was Doc. Adams. He ha. been with his uncle ever since he left Atlanta. He had worked for the Gate City Coffin Company. Colonel Jones brought out the fact that a family misunderstanding existed between Doc Adams and Eliza Walker, a niece of Berry Turnor, one of the men on trial.

The last witness introduced was Mr. W. C. Carter, the clerk of the United States district court. Mr. Carter was introduced to prove that Mauldin was a deputy marshal at the time the report of the distillery was made to him by Blankenship.

The trial will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock.

I TELL YOU WHAT'S A FACT

A NEW DANGER.

A great danger threatens the people of the South. Liver Medicines, called by all sorts of names, are being sold to the druggist to be handed to the people when they call for Simmons Liver Regulator. Beware! Take nothing else. The person who tries to pursuade you that anything else is just the same is not to be relied upon, nor is the dealer to be trusted who tries to sell you another article in its stead. You know what Simmons Liver Regulator is. Don't be deceived into trying anything else. Remember, Simmons Liver Regulator isputup only by J. H. Zeilin &-Co., and a Red Z is on every package.

BUY FOR CASH!

One-Half Off On All Sheet Music!

FROM THIS DATE, WE WILL GIVE FIFTY PER CENT OFF ON ALL SHEET MUSIC sold in our store. This is positively for cash--not a single charge will be made in our Sheet Music or small goods department. We will sell any piece of Music that is published at one-half off. This means that 50 cents will buy as much now as $1.00 would formerly. This department is in charge of Mr. Charles Price, one of the best posted men on Sheet Music in this country, and all orders will receive prompt and cheerful attention. Mr. Price will take pleasure in playing over any piece of Music, and will always have in stock the latest popular compositions.

We have facilitated a Telegraph Service that will insure a promptness not heretofore secured in any Music house in the south, and will place at the disposal of Sheet Music buyers any piece of Music published in the world at ONE-HALF what it has heretofore been sold for in Atlanta. It must be distinctly understood that every piece of Music sold by us from this date will be for spot cash--nothing will be charged. A COMPLETE NEW STOCK---NO OLD TRASH.

INTREMURAL LINE.

The Committee Will Look Over the Exposition Grounds Today.

AN ATLANTA COMPANY BACKING IT

The Line to Make a Complete Circuit of the Exposition Grounds-Other Matters of Interest.

The intramural railway has been under onsideration by the building and grounds ommittee of the exposition for some time There was a meeting of this committee yesterday morning to take some action concerning this interior transit line, which is being pushed by a number of enterprising Atlanta business men and capitalists. The committee decided to visit the exposition grounds today and take a look over the field so as to determine about the course of the proposed line. It has been determined that the line thall make t complete circle of the grounds, fringing the outer edge. It will touch at all of the principal buildings and will be of great usefulness in this respect, as well as being a novelty that will prove attractive to the visiting crowds.

It is practically assured that the local company will build the line. The company is composed of a number of well-known Atlanta gentlemen, among them Captain Atlanta gentlemen, among them Captain I. Y. Sage, a railroad man of experience and ability. Other Atlantians of means are deeply interested in the road, actively and financially.

They propose to equip a first-class intramural line skirting the grounds and furnish as complete and satisfactory a service as was rendered at the Chicago fair. They will have cars of the very latest and They will have cars of the very latest and most elegant pattern and will have a gen-eral equipment that for safety and rapidity cannot be equaled. This line will be a feature of the show. The company has been given until January 1st to complete its organization and to sign a contract.

Work of the Ladies.

Work of the Ladles.

The woman's department of the exposition has been comparatively deserted this week, as the ladies are energetically engaged elsewhere with other enterprises for the benefit of the exposition. The leading spirits of the woman's department are actively engaged in the promotion of the success of the elegant bazaar at the Gate City Guard armory and in arranging for the Guard armory and in arranging for the brownie show. The great success of the fair up to date reflects an infinite amount of credit upon the earnest ladies who have directed it from its inception to the pres-ent point, and when the history of Atlanta's great exposition comes to be written, the conscientious and fairminded historian will give places of honor to the woman's board. The brownie show, which occurs next week, promises to be the dramatic event of the season. Everybody remembers what a sensation was created in American dramatic circles three months ago when it was announced that Palmer Cox's brownies were to be staged, and every one remem-bers what instant success the stage pro-duction of these queer little inites achieved. Since the first appearance of the brownies three moths ago they have been all the talk, and now, in New York, where they are playing, the Fourteenth street theater is crowded 'nightly by delighted audiences and four times a week at matinees.

The production in Atlanta will be a com-plete and artistic one. It is being given under the direction of Mr. Pardee, who has a wealth of experience in this line, and the clever and capable young people who are to take the several parts assures its great success.

To prevent malaria, the grip, pneumonia, fevers, catarrh and rheumatism, keep your blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It creates an appetite and builds up the whole system.
